Monroe Schools Closed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Monroe Local School District in Huron County may get the dubious distinction of being shut down the longest of any system in the state this year because of financial troubles.

School officials learned Wednesday they may have to close their doors on Friday, just five days after they opened, because of a shortage of operating funds.

State Auditor Thomas E. Ferguson on Wednesday certified an Aug. 26 closing date for the 975-student northern Ohio district.

Ferguson said the schools could anticipate a $120,122 cash deficit on Dec. 31 and that student instruction would have to cease on Oct. 6 in order to make up the deficit.

But state examiners also noted that because the school must pay unemployment compensation during the closed period, the deficit would increase by $100,820, necessitating a Aug. 26 closing.

Classes began Monday.

The closing date will not be official until it is certified by state Supt. of Public Instruction Franklin B. Walter. A spokesman for the state Department of Education said school officials were still conferring with the auditor's office and had not determined that classes will have to end on Friday.

Voters in the school district have defeated two operating levies this year.

If the schools close, they will reopen in January when funds from the new year's tax revenues become available. All lost days during the closing would have to be made up.

It would be the longest school closing anticipated so far this year because of financial difficulties. The Toledo school district is scheduled to shut down from Oct. 13 to Jan. 3 because of a $6.7 million deficit.

Mohawks Moving Settlement

MOSSLAKE, N.Y. (AP) — A band of Indians that seized hundreds of acres of lush forestland in the Adirondacks is moving its community north by rail after surviving three winters in handmade cabins and the hostility of their white neighbors.

The Indians — about 30 families of the Mohawk tribe — are trying to be self-sufficient and live off the land. They lived in the cabins reportedly without electricity or plumbing.

"What brings us here is that we don't see any healthy future for our children if they remain in the reservation and in the urban areas. There are great dangers out there," said the group's spokesman, Kakwirakeron, a former Brooklyn ironworker. "Our culture is on the verge of extinction and we must look seven generations ahead."

Now, after long negotiations with the state, the Mohawks have agreed to relocate in Clinton County, about 100 miles to the northeast. They will be settling on an estimated 2,400 acres of public land with fishing and hunting rights on additional land.

Under terms of the agreement with the state, the Indians will rent farming, fishing and camping rights by establishing a model Indian village for public viewing.

But a spokesman for the group said they still are not giving up their original claim to almost 12.5 million acres of land in northern New York and Vermont.

Mohawk Chief Joseph Brant sold the land to New York State in 1797 for $1,000. The Indians claim the purchase violated a 1794 treaty that prohibited sale of the land.

They are part of the growing movement among Indians to force the government to honor treaties with their forefathers.

In May 1974, the Mohawks took over an abandoned girls' camp owned by the state near here to push recognition for their claim.

Tensions ran high a few months after the Mohawks occupied the abandoned campground. Two whites were wounded by gunfire as they drove past the encampment. The Indians claimed they had been fired on first and refused to allow investigators onto their property.

Since then, they have been living here in virtual seclusion. No white man is allowed on the settlement.

The Mohawks have assumed traditional Indian names although their dress consists mainly of T-shirts and jeans. They grow their own food and fish and hunt. Many gave up good jobs and homes, according to Kakwirakeron.

Pauline Jones Receives Senior Citizen Award

PRESENTATION — Pauline Jones receives the Outstanding Senior Citizen Award of Pickaway County from Donald Strous, county commissioner.

Pauline Jones, 82, E. Ohio St., was presented an award at the Ohio State Fair for being the Outstanding Senior Citizen from Pickaway County.

In making the presentation, Donald Strous, Pickaway County commissioner, commented on the many contributions Mrs. Jones has made to her community.

Mrs. Jones and her husband, Walter, have celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary. They are the parents of three sons and three daughters and have 14 grandchildren. She worked as a domestic helper until her retirement at age 62.

She is a charter member of the Pickaway County Senior Citizens Center and has been chairman for the past five years. She is also the chairman of the kitchen committee.

A member of the Friendly Visitors, she made 290 visits to sick and shut-ins during 1976. She is the alternate delegate to the area advisory council, a member of Pickaway Terrace Inc., a member of the Pickaway County Council on Aging and chairman of various other committees. She has served as a Red Cross Board member and has helped deliver Franciscan Meals.

She not only carries out the regular activities at the center but finds time for programs in her church to help others.

She is a member of the Second Baptist Church of Circleville where she is a Sunday School and Bible School teacher, assistant superintendent, president of the Missionary Society, treasurer of Sunday School and active in Guild Girls and the Second District Baptist Missionary Convention.

Mrs. Jones was selected from five nominees by a committee from the Pickaway Council on Aging.

There were 67 persons from Pickaway Senior Center who enjoyed Saturday at the fair. The Forever Young Kitchen Band performed on the morning program along with special numbers from the other eight counties.

Lunch No Hum-Drum Matter At White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — As restaurants go, the decor isn't much. But the service is fast, the food is inexpensive but good and the address is the best in town: 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue.

The White House mess may be the most exclusive luncheon spot in Washington, a city where membership in a small club counts a great deal.

The man at the salad bar may be Vice President Walter F. Mondale. Or he may be a Cabinet member or a top presidential assistant. On a rare day, President Carter stops by for a bite to eat.

Picture it: red carpeting, fresh carnations, nautical paintings and a ship's clock. Lunch is served on white china embossed with the presidential seal. It's available to a select 180 persons and an occasional lucky guest.

The bite-sized home fries are cooked just right, crisped to a golden brown. The salad, topped with bacon bits, bean sprouts, egg, crouton and peppers, is nearly a meal in itself. But the tender lobster tails, even though succulent, are a bit on the cool side.

Mom might have sold her soul to lay claim to the apple pie, topped with vanilla ice cream so rich it has a sheen like meringue.

A little chilled white wine with the meal would make it perfect, but Carter has ordered everything stronger than iced tea off the menu.

In other days, it was different. Richard Nixon permitted beer and Margaritas at least once a week, part of a Thursday Mexican special. LBJ went all the way with daily cocktails.

The White House notes with pride that it has increased the mess membership from 150 to include more aides. The list of honorary members has been trimmed to 30 or so.

These days, the list includes Federal Reserve Chairman Arthur Burns; Ken Curtis of the Democratic National Committee; CIA Director Adm. Stansfield Turner, William Scranton, a member of the Intelligence Oversight Board; Charles Kirbo, an Atlanta lawyer and Carter's longtime friend and several less familiar names like Henry Owen of the Brookings Institution.

Unlike the days when Alan Greenspan, President Ford's economic adviser, defied the rules to sneak television personality Barbara Walters in for lunch, reporters now can be invited to sample the presidential cuisine. Eavesdropping and picture-taking are frowned upon.

All this democratizing of the mess, which is operated by the U.S. Navy, has not impressed William Gulley, director of White House Military Affairs. Gulley, on the staff since 1966, thinks the changes are self-defeating.

"The purpose of the mess was to have a place where senior staff members could go so they didn't have to spend too much time away from their desks and could conduct business with each other," he said. He added that the mess was opened under President Franklin D. Roosevelt, who didn't want his men all over town for two-hour lunches.

"Now they're making a 'goodie' out of it. It's become a prestige thing to belong," said Gulley. "And opening it to the press has taken all its privacy away."

Reluctant Witness Ready To Testify In Korean Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Suzi Park Thomson, the reluctant witness in the House investigation of alleged South Korean influence-buying on Capitol Hill, reportedly is ready to begin answering questions.

The former secretary to retired House Speaker Carl Albert plans to meet today in a closed-door session with investigators for the House ethics committee in an attempt to head off a contempt of Congress citation, her lawyer says.

Investigators had sought to question her earlier, but she insisted on answering the committee's questions only in public, saying she feared secret testimony would be distorted against her.

Sources said the committee held off deciding on a contempt action Wednesday after the lawyer, Phillip Hirshkop, promised that Ms. Thomson would answer all questions about the alleged influence-buying.

But Hirshkop said Ms. Thomson did not intend to answer questions about her personal life.

In another development, special committee counsel Leon Jaworski said Wednesday he is confident the panel will get testimony from Korean rice dealer Tongsun Park despite his vow not to cooperate.

Jaworski called Park's testimony "highly significant" and said the committee has a strategy — which he refused to spell out — to get it.

But Jaworski, the former Watergate special prosecutor, added, "I don't believe his testimony is something that is either going to make cases or is fatal to cases."

Ms. Thomson has said she knows nothing about any scheme to buy congressional influence.

The committee's investigators threatened last week to cite her over her refusal to answer three questions.

Her lawyer said she was asked whether she knows of "payoffs" by Park or former South Korean ambassador Kim Dong Jo to members of Congress plus what she knows of a 1975 congressional trip to Korea.

Ms. Thomson gave parties attended by congressmen and Korean officials and had an affair with one congressman then under investigation in connection with the alleged influence-buying.

But she has denied any involvement or even knowledge of such an operation and said the affair was a private matter that involved nothing of national interest.

The House committee and the Justice Department are investigating whether cash contributions, gifts and favors Park and other South Koreans gave U.S. congressmen were part of a scheme to buy influence in Congress for the South Korean government.

Park said at a news conference in Seoul on Wednesday that he would not cooperate with any American investigator, including Jaworski.

Parochial Schools Benefit From Newly Enacted Law

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — More than 260,000 parochial school pupils throughout Ohio stand to benefit from a newly enacted law that makes $88 million in state funds available to their school systems.

Gov. James A. Rhodes signed the immediately effective legislation into law late Wednesday, clearing the way for allocation of funds under guidelines that apparently meet edicts of the U.S. Supreme Court.

Rhodes also signed into law a regular 90-day bill, which takes effect Nov. 24, allowing the board of regents to award 1,000 scholarships annually to "merit scholars" in the amount of $1,000 each.

Noting that the legislation will aid high capability students, the governor said in part that it would "give them added incentive for continued good work as college students."

As enacted, the new law on aid to parochial schools says the state may provide auxiliary services to employ clerical and administrative personnel who in turn will supervise the providing of textbooks, already permitted by the court. It also allows expenditures of state funds for pupil transportation to so-called neutral sites to receive health and other auxiliary services.

In a decision last June, the U.S. court disallowed an earlier Ohio law that provided funds for certain types of field trips and for educational materials and equipment.

For the past decade, the legislature and state officials have attempted to stay within the delicate constitutional border separating church and state. However, they have had to do so mostly in retrospect after individual court battles.

Rhodes also signed into law five other measures with effective dates of Nov. 24, including one which extends the life of the Joint Underwriters Association (JUA) until Dec. 31, 1980—two years beyond its intended life span.

The JUA was created by the legislature July 28, 1975, to provide medical malpractice insurance to doctors and hospitals unable to obtain it in the private insurance market. Legislative sponsors of the new law said the agency still is needed.

Rhodes also signed the following bills:

—Legislation sponsored by Sen. Patrick A. Sweeney, D-6 Cleveland, allowing cities, counties and local school boards to contribute to area arts councils and similar organizations.

—A bill authored by Sen. Thomas E. Carney, D-32 Girard, permitting roadside advertising signs in place before Oct. 22, 1965, if the Ohio Department of Transportation decides they are of historical or artistic significance.

—A bill sponsored by Rep. Eugene

Branstool, D-1 Utica, broadening the availability of health insurance coverage for birth defects.

Construction Topic Of Hospital Board

By ANDI HUMPHRIES
Herald Staff Writer

The Berger Hospital Board of Governors and Commissioners met Wednesday evening in regular session. The commissioners discussed the low bids on the hospital construction.

Administrator Charles Rideout said that because the bid was about 11 or 12 per cent above the estimate, a letter had to be presented to the Ohio Department of Health. The increase had to be considered on either a non-reviewable or non-substantive basis.

Director Dr. John Ackerman of the state chose to review it on a non-substantive basis, which means the hospital must re-submit sections of the 1122 application.

Rideout said the sections will be hand-delivered to the state department and to the Mid Ohio Health Planning Association today. Within the law, he said, these organizations must have an answer within 15 days.

This application must be approved before any contracts can be signed for construction. The board has until Oct.

8 to sign with the bidders.

The Board of Governors were informed of data processing systems that are being examined by Rideout. Harry Clifton and Rideout feel the hospital needs a more efficient billing system.

Collections are slow, especially in the out-patient area. Rideout said there are about 6,000 accounts in this section and they are for less money than the 1,000 in patient accounts. Several companies are being reviewed, and Rideout hopes to have cost figures by the next board of governors meeting.

The board approved a motion for Rideout to hire a Director of Volunteers for the hospital. The administrator said he has been approached several times on the subject. This employee would arrange and train the Red Cross Volunteers and others who work at the hospital.

Rideout said "several thousand hours per year" are donated by volunteers and a salaried employee is

Rival Miners Trade Shots

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — Shots were fired Wednesday night when two rival groups of the United Mine Workers gathered in the Cabin Creek area of Kanawha County, state police said.

Troopers reported no injuries and said the groups dispersed shortly after the shooting incident.

A reporter for the Charleston Gazette, who was at the scene, said about ten shots came from the direction of about 40 miners who said they would not return to work as directed in an order issued Monday by the union's International Executive Board.

UMW president Arnold Miller "has sent his thugs up here," said the miners. The dissidents, believed to be from the union's Charleston based District 17, referred to the second group, which consisted of about 100 men.

Members of the larger group said they were there "to make sure the pickets don't stop the men from going back to work."

Earlier in the day, Miller had met with members of the union's organizing department and made plans to insure that miners in the Cabin Creek area were not kept from working by pickets.

The groups remained about 75 yards apart. State police arrived about 30 minutes after the shots were fired.

"It's brother against brother," said Talmadge Dean, of Ellsworth, Pa., a member of the larger group. "We were asked to come down here by our local union president. But we can see that District 17 isn't ready to get back to work."

Dean said about 20 of the miners in the group were from other states.

The shooting incident occurred shortly before 10 p.m. near five Bethlehem Steel mines at Kayford. Supply clerk Kenneth Tucker, Jr., said the mines were closed Wednesday night because of picketing.

Old Bird House Dedication Set At Cincinnati Zoo

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Zoo next week will dedicate a memorial to Martha, a bird conservationists hope will become a perpetual reminder of man's greed and thoughtlessness.

Martha was the name of the last known passenger pigeon, which died at the Cincinnati Zoo on Sept. 1, 1914.

The Old Bird House where she died is being dedicated next Thursday as a memorial to the passenger pigeon and to all extinct species.

Information on the Carolina Parakeet, the last of which died at the Cincinnati Zoo in 1918, will also be on display at the memorial.

In 1813, artist-naturalist John James Audubon watched a flock of passenger pigeons pass overhead as he traveled from Henderson, Ky., on the banks of the Ohio, to Louisville.

He wrote that the stream of birds was so dense it darkened the sun. He said the flock was about one mile wide and took three hours to pass.

When Martha was hatched in 1885, millions of passenger pigeons filled the skies over the United States. By the time the bird was 10 years old, in 1895, the species had dwindled to 250,000 and yet it continued to be shot by the hundreds.

"The passenger pigeon had two great failings. It was beautiful and edible," noted John Ruthven, a noted wildlife artist whose original drawing of the species has helped to raise money to restore the zoo site.

Ruthven told of one occasion at the turn of the century at Coney Island in New York where 20,000 pigeons were shot for sport in 10 days.

"This pigeon is testimony to man's greed," Ruthven said.

Martha came to the Cincinnati Zoo in 1902. The zoo had been keeping the species since 1878, when its collection had been reduced to 11 birds.

The last authenticated sighting of a wild passenger pigeon occurred in 1900. The pigeon was shot by a little boy.

Now only three birds remained at the Cincinnati Zoo. One of two males died in April 1909, leaving only the one pair of passenger pigeons. The zoo was offered great sums of money to part with the pair, but it refused.

Martha and her mate built a nest, but all eggs proved infertile. When the male died on July 10, 1910, all hopes of preserving the species went with him.

Martha lived on for four more years. Two oldtimers recalled that a sign hung outside her cage offering a $10,000 reward to anyone who could find a mate for Martha.

"People used to bring in mourning doves which resemble passenger pigeons, but are smaller," said one longtime zoo visitor.

On Sept. 1, 1914, Martha was found on the ground, dead. An examination revealed she had died of old age at 29. It was thought that it was the first time that the last of a species had passed away in a zoo.

Martha's remains were packed in ice and sent to the Smithsonian Institution where she was mounted and placed on display.

Her final home at the zoo—one of the oldest buildings in the park—has been placed on the national register of historic places.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Producers of "Oh! Calcutta!" lost an attempt to block obscenity prosecution Wednesday but remained in litigation with a theater which demanded advance legal fees.

U.S. District Court Judge Timothy Hogan, who refused an offer to fly to New York to see the show, threw out the action against Cincinnati smut prosecutor Simon Leis Jr. of Hamilton County.

Hogan said his court "can't preempt prosecution authority" by enjoining Leis from a possible future legal action.

Arnold Morelli, attorney for Broadway Productions, contended that Leis' "reputation for zealous prosecution of obscenity cases, coupled with his statements" to Morelli and officials of the Cincinnati Music Hall, "have a chilling and inhibitive effect."

"The evidence lacks proof that Mr. Leis said he would prosecute," replied the judge. Hogan also criticized the lawyer for not bringing into court a videotape of the show instead of playing a tape recording. "I'm not going anywhere. This court is based in southern Ohio," Hogan said in response to an offer by Morelli to fly the jurist to New York City to view the production there.

Morelli exchanged words with Leis when he called Leis to the stand and demanded Leis confirm a conversation with Morelli on Aug. 2.

"That was talk between two lawyers," Leis snapped. "I didn't expect to be in court because of it." Leis said he could not recall the conversation.

Leis testified that officials of the Music Hall reported that the producers had asked for the dates of Oct. 12 and 13. The producers were worried about possible prosecution in light of the recent conviction of Hustler magazine publisher Larry Flynt on obscenity charges.

"I simply said that if there was a complaint, I would ask the police to review the show. If the police reported there was obscenity I would take a grand jury down there and let them decide," said Leis. "I didn't know a thing about the show."

"Didn't you say they were bringing back smut, that some people would do anything for money? Didn't you say you didn't give a crap about changing community standards," Morelli demanded.

"I don't recall," Leis said.

Hogan gave Morelli permission to amend the complaint against codefendant Music Hall. The producers contend their right of free speech was abridged when the hall demanded the producers put up money to pay the cost of possible prosecution for obscenity.

The producers called three witnesses who said "Oh! Calcutta!" was not patently offensive and had redeeming entertainment value.

Investigators Believe Man Ran 'Sex School'

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Wayne Thomas Heacock is a neighborhood Pied Piper, adored by all the children, approved of by their parents.

Today, the 34-year-old handyman is charged with criminal sexual conduct. Investigators believe that for 20 years he ran a "sex school" for children that "graduated" almost 200 youngsters and awarded prizes for performance.

Heacock is in the Oakland County jail under $125,000 bond. He pleaded innocent at his district court arraignment Wednesday on a five-count charge of first-degree criminal sexual conduct with a 9-year-old boy. Heacock requested a court-appointed attorney.

Describing the case as "probably the largest child molesting incident in the history of this office," Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson said handwritten diaries found in Heacock's home detailed sexual encounters with youngsters, mainly boys. The diaries dated back to 1957.

The prosecutor said no evidence has linked Heacock to the recent sex murders of several children in Oakland County, but the special task force investigating the murders would examine material seized at Heacock's home.

Patterson said investigators confiscated tape recordings, movies and photographs. Heacock also surrendered at least two boxes of documents in addition to the diaries, Patterson said.

He said the diaries and other documents mentioned the operation of a secret group called "The IC Club," in which youngsters were invited to participate in sexual acts.

It was run like a school, Patterson said, with prospective students answering a 40-question entrance exam and promising to be Heacock's best friend and never to tell anyone about the club's activities.

Patterson said there were apparent progressions up the ladder similar to grades in school, with pupils advancing from one sexual act to another.

When a youngster accumulated a certain number of points, he was given a prize, which in one case was a 10-speed bicycle, the prosecutor said.

The investigation was launched after a girlfriend of a boarder in Heacock's home stumbled onto one of the diaries.

People in Heacock's working class neighborhood said they don't believe the charges. "I've known him for almost four years," said Floyd Young, a neighbor. "I just don't believe it. I know Tom. I know what he stands for. This is bound to be false."

OSP Investigates Injury Accident

Post 65 of the Ohio Highway Patrol investigated an injury accident at 7:30 a.m. this morning on State Route 316 near Ashville.

According to Trooper Dean Harrison, Rodger E. Matzenbach, 16, 5020 North St. in Ashville, was east-bound on 316 when his vehicle's tires dropped off the right side of the roadway. Matzenbach over-corrected the vehicle in an attempt to bring it back onto the roadway and went left of center.

While left of center, Matzenbach spotted an oncoming vehicle and tried to swerve back to the right, but his auto went into a skid.

At this point Matzenbach's car was struck by a car driven by Larry W. Fraley, 33, of 71 E. Main St. in Ashville.

Matzenbach was thrown from his vehicle, and on the arrival of Trooper Harrison he was lying in the roadway. He suffered a large laceration to his head, along with other lacerations and contusions. He was taken to Berger Hospital by the Harrison Twp. Emergency Squad, where he was admitted for treatment of his injuries.

Fraley was referred to a doctor for treatment of a neck injury.

Dynamite Found In Stolen Truck

The local post of the Ohio Highway Patrol discovered dynamite in a stolen truck Wednesday evening on U.S. Route 23 North.

According to Lt. Dennis Kohn, commander of Post 65, the truck was being searched by Troopers when the one pound piece of dynamite was found in the back, along with a three foot length of fuse in the glove compartment.

The bomb squad from Rickenbacker Air Force Base was called to the scene. They removed the explosives and disposed of them.

Lt. Kohn stated that the explosives belonged to the owner of the vehicle in Jackson, Ohio, and that they were used in a construction business.

Rival Miners Trade Shots

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — Shots were fired Wednesday night when two rival groups of the United Mine Workers gathered in the Cabin Creek area of Kanawha County, state police said.

Troopers reported no injuries and said the groups dispersed shortly after the shooting incident.

A reporter for the Charleston Gazette, who was at the scene, said about ten shots came from the direction of about 40 miners who said they would not return to work as directed in an order issued Monday by the union's International Executive Board.

UMW president Arnold Miller "has sent his thugs up here," said the miners. The dissidents, believed to be from the union's Charleston based District 17, referred to the second group, which consisted of about 100 men.

Members of the larger group said they were there "to make sure the pickets don't stop the men from going back to work."

Earlier in the day, Miller had met with members of the union's organizing department and made plans to insure that miners in the Cabin Creek area were not kept from working by pickets.

The groups remained about 75 yards apart. State police arrived about 30 minutes after the shots were fired.

"It's brother against brother," said Talmadge Dean, of Ellsworth, Pa., a member of the larger group. "We were asked to come down here by our local union president. But we can see that District 17 isn't ready to get back to work."

Dean said about 20 of the miners in the group were from other states.

The shooting incident occurred shortly before 10 p.m. near five Bethlehem Steel mines at Kayford. Supply clerk Kenneth Tucker, Jr., said the mines were closed Wednesday night because of picketing.

Now only three birds remained at the Cincinnati Zoo. One of two males died in April 1909, leaving only the one pair of passenger pigeons. The zoo was offered great sums of money to part with the pair, but it refused.

Martha and her mate built a nest, but all eggs proved infertile. When the male died on July 10, 1910, all hopes of preserving the species went with him.

Martha lived on for four more years. Two oldtimers recalled that a sign hung outside her cage offering a $10,000 reward to anyone who could find a mate for Martha.

"People used to bring in mourning doves which resemble passenger pigeons, but are smaller," said one longtime zoo visitor.

On Sept. 1, 1914, Martha was found on the ground, dead. An examination revealed she had died of old age at 29. It was thought that it was the first time that the last of a species had passed away in a zoo.

Martha's remains were packed in ice and sent to the Smithsonian Institution where she was mounted and placed on display.

Her final home at the zoo—one of the oldest buildings in the park—has been placed on the national register of historic places.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Producers of "Oh! Calcutta!" lost an attempt to block obscenity prosecution Wednesday but remained in litigation with a theater which demanded advance legal fees.

U.S. District Court Judge Timothy Hogan, who refused an offer to fly to New York to see the show, threw out the action against Cincinnati smut prosecutor Simon Leis Jr. of Hamilton County.

Hogan said his court "can't preempt prosecution authority" by enjoining Leis from a possible future legal action.

Arnold Morelli, attorney for Broadway Productions, contended that Leis' "reputation for zealous prosecution of obscenity cases, coupled with his statements" to Morelli and officials of the Cincinnati Music Hall, "have a chilling and inhibitive effect."

"The evidence lacks proof that Mr. Leis said he would prosecute," replied the judge. Hogan also criticized the lawyer for not bringing into court a videotape of the show instead of playing a tape recording. "I'm not going anywhere. This court is based in southern Ohio," Hogan said in response to an offer by Morelli to fly the jurist to New York City to view the production there.

Morelli exchanged words with Leis when he called Leis to the stand and demanded Leis confirm a conversation with Morelli on Aug. 2.

"That was talk between two lawyers," Leis snapped. "I didn't expect to be in court because of it."

Leis testified that officials of the Music Hall reported that the producers had asked for the dates of Oct. 12 and 13. The producers were worried about possible prosecution in light of the recent conviction of Hustler magazine publisher Larry Flynt on obscenity charges.

"I simply said that if there was a complaint, I would ask the police to review the show. If the police reported there was obscenity I would take a grand jury down there and let them decide," said Leis. "I didn't know a thing about the show."

"Didn't you say they were bringing back smut, that some people would do anything for money? Didn't you say you didn't give a crap about changing community standards," Morelli demanded.

"I don't recall," Leis said.

Hogan gave Morelli permission to amend the complaint against codefendant Music Hall. The producers contend their right of free speech was abridged when the hall demanded the producers put up money to pay the cost of possible prosecution for obscenity.

The producers called three witnesses who said "Oh! Calcutta!" was not patently offensive and had redeeming entertainment value.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Appointments were made Wednesday to advisory councils for emergency medical services and the Civilian Conservation Corps, Gov. James A. Rhodes announced.

Ted Howall of Dayton and Eric Voth of Cuyahoga Falls were both reappointed to the Emergency Medical Services Advisory Council for three-year terms.

Herbert Sharples Cook of Columbus, Everett Edward Ridge of Athens and John J. Light of Logan were named to the newly created Civilian Conservation Corps.

Investigators Believe Man Ran 'Sex School'

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Wayne Thomas Heacock is a neighborhood Pied Piper, adored by all the children, approved of by their parents.

Today, the 34-year-old handyman is charged with criminal sexual conduct. Investigators believe that for 20 years he ran a "sex school" for children that "graduated" almost 200 youngsters and awarded prizes for performance.

Heacock is in the Oakland County jail under $125,000 bond. He pleaded innocent at his district court arraignment Wednesday on a five-count charge of first-degree criminal sexual conduct with a 9-year-old boy. Heacock requested a court-appointed attorney.

Describing the case as "probably the largest child molesting incident in the history of this office," Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson said handwritten diaries found in Heacock's home detailed sexual encounters with youngsters, mainly boys. The diaries dated back to 1957.

The prosecutor said no evidence has linked Heacock to the recent sex murders of several children in Oakland County, but the special task force investigating the murders would examine material seized at Heacock's home.

Patterson said investigators confiscated tape recordings, movies and photographs. Heacock also surrendered at least two boxes of documents in addition to the diaries, Patterson said.

He said the diaries and other documents mentioned the operation of a secret group called "The IC Club," in which youngsters were invited to participate in sexual acts.

It was run like a school, Patterson said, with prospective students answering a 40-question entrance exam and promising to be Heacock's best friend and never to tell anyone about the club's activities.

Patterson said there were apparent progressions up the ladder similar to grades in school, with pupils advancing from one sexual act to another.

When a youngster accumulated a certain number of points, he was given a prize, which in one case was a 10-speed bicycle, the prosecutor said.

The investigation was launched after a girlfriend of a boarder in Heacock's home stumbled onto one of the diaries.

People in Heacock's working class neighborhood said they don't believe the charges. "I've known him for almost four years," said Floyd Young, a neighbor. "I just don't believe it. I know Tom. I know what he stands for. This is bound to be false."

OSP Investigates Injury Accident

Post 65 of the Ohio Highway Patrol investigated an injury accident at 7:30 a.m. this morning on State Route 316 near Ashville.

According to Trooper Dean Harrison, Rodger E. Matzenbach, 16, 5020 North St. in Ashville, was east-bound on 316 when his vehicle's tires dropped off the right side of the roadway. Matzenbach over-corrected the vehicle in an attempt to bring it back onto the roadway and went left of center.

While left of center, Matzenbach spotted an oncoming vehicle and tried to swerve back to the right, but his auto went into a skid.

At this point Matzenbach's car was struck by a car driven by Larry W. Fraley, 33, of 71 E. Main St. in Ashville.

Matzenbach was thrown from his vehicle, and on the arrival of Trooper Harrison he was lying in the roadway. He suffered a large laceration to his head, along with other lacerations and contusions. He was taken to Berger Hospital by the Harrison Twp. Emergency Squad, where he was admitted for treatment of his injuries.

Fraley was referred to a doctor for treatment of a neck injury.

Dynamite Found In Stolen Truck

The local post of the Ohio Highway Patrol discovered dynamite in a stolen truck Wednesday evening on U.S. Route 23 North.

According to Lt. Dennis Kohn, commander of Post 65, the truck was being searched by Troopers when the one pound piece of dynamite was found in the back, along with a three foot length of fuse in the glove compartment.

The bomb squad from Rickenbacker Air Force Base was called to the scene. They removed the explosives and disposed of them.

Lt. Kohn stated that the explosives belonged to the owner of the vehicle in Jackson, Ohio, and that they were used in a construction business.

Urban Crisis Panel Studies Possibility Of Using Gas Taxes For Mass Transit

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The legislature's new urban crisis committee apparently will revive the old legal argument over whether state gasoline and other highway taxes can be used for purposes other than highway construction and maintenance.

Richard G. Sheridan, director of the Legislative Budget Office, told the committee Tuesday that there is "a growing body of legal opinion" that runs against a long-held position that other uses would violate the Ohio Constitution.

Sheridan's comment came during a discussion of priorities by the new Senate-House committee—with mass transit, housing, and the allocation of state taxes revenues to local governments getting the most mention. The LBO director indicated using highway revenues for mass transit would be a possibility.

Sen. William F. Bowen, D-9 Cincinnati, committee chairman, asked Sheridan for a memo on the controversy. His request came after members agreed generally that mass transit, in one way or the other, must be relied on to help meet Ohio's future transportation needs.

Any attempt by the new committee to put a dent in the longprotected highway funds would be certain to meet with heated opposition in the legislature where the powerful highway construction lobby has guarded them for many years.

Otherwise, at its second meeting, the committee decided to review the formula used to distribute state sales tax and other revenues to local governments.

Sheridan said a recent study of the distributions by Dr. Frederick Stocker, Ohio State University economist, indicated rural areas of the state have been receiving a disproportionate share of the funds, at the expense of Ohio's big cities.

Bowen said he will ask Stocker to testify at the committee's next meeting Sept. 7. He also is inviting William A. Losoncy, director of the Ohio Housing Development Board, to discuss programs to provide housing in the state's inner cities. A proposed housing amendment on the Nov. 8 statewide ballot will be an area of inquiry, Bowen said.

Bowen sponsored the joint resolution which created the 16-member committee of eight members from each house. It was assigned the task of reviewing problems and making recommendations to the legislature prior to Jan. 1, 1979.

A Page Of Opinion

Daydreamers Misunderstood

Daydreaming has a bad reputation, and probably deserves it. Even poets, who themselves stand accused of the vice, have said many harsh words about dreams and dreamers.

Shakespeare's Caesar says contemptuously of the sooth-sayer: "He is a dreamer; let us leave him," and passes on.

But not all of today's psychiatrists condemn daydreaming. Most children feel more or less anxiety. A reasonable amount of daydreaming may help them cope with it.

It follows it really shouldn't be difficult to understand that a child who is daydreaming actually may be applying a wholesome measure of psychotherapy to his anxieties.

If so, he is showing better sense than the adults who try to stop him. There are, in short, good and bad daydreams. Trying to sort them can drive a parent to distraction.

Snake Eyes On Boardwalk?

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — If everything goes according to Hoyle (and political plan), Atlantic City will open the first legal gambling casinos in the north-east by next Easter.

I don't plan to attend. Casinos make me nervous.

"A shame," said a man who ran a casino in Las Vegas for a quarter of a century. "You women, you know, are usually luckier than your men. But a very small percentage of you," explained the expert, Major Riddle, "capitalize on your luck. It's depressing to see how you behave. The more you win, the less you bet."

"As an example," he said, "I have a friend, a physician, who persuaded his wife to try a roll with the dice at my establishment. Well, she didn't know. She didn't want to, because she was sure she'd lose."

Finally, however, she picked up the dice and tossed them - and then proceeded to hold onto them for the next hour. This lady made 32 straight passes, the most fantastic run of luck anyone in the casino had ever seen.

"Yet, in spite of her incredible feat, she won only slightly over $100. To win that little, after a feat like that, was almost as difficult as the feat, itself."

Riddle was plainly shocked.

"A good gambler - male - took advantage of her streak, bet with her, and raked in $75,000."

The physician's wife was sheepish. Asked why she hadn't bet more when she had a streak going, she said, "Well, each time I won, I became more positive than ever that I'd lose on the next throw." And, being family and security-minded, she felt that losing money would be a much greater misfortune than winning money would be a success.

That's what makes mothers.

The lady admitted that she was additionally "spooked" by the facial expression of the croupier (a common complaint among women). "If he'd smiled, just once, I might have felt I was getting someplace," she said lamely.

"Why is it," I asked the director of The New York School of Gambling this week, "that dealers and croupiers always have to look so grim? Do you teach them to be cold and nasty as part of the technique?"

Steve Ludlow, whose school will train personnel to man the tables in Atlantic City, smiled amiably. "Well, no, that's not exactly part of the technique in dealing. I got my training at Harrah's in Lake Tahoe, where the gambling is oriented more to the tourist than the heavy gamblers, and they told us there was nothing wrong with smiling at the customers occasionally. It might even get you a bigger tip."

"But down south in Vegas," Ludlow admitted, "they usually insist on the dealers being straight-faced. That's because the gambling is very serious there, lots of money changing hands, and the first thing a heavy gambler wants at his table is someone who gives the right payoffs as soon as possible. Real gamblers don't want personality. They want a machine."

Ludlow added that in smaller clubs, where bigtime gamblers don't hang out, you'll often get a "hi, how are you" and a nice to see you' from a blackjack dealer as you join his table. But you can't be real sure of getting that much friendliness. Dealing is a tough job. You have to be able to roll with the punches, tolerate a lot, and stand there and eat your pride. The man behind the table is dealing with people at their worst - they've lost money or they're drunk - and he has to stand there and take it. If you can't eat your pride, in most casinos, you don't last long as an employee."

In spite of the drawbacks of the job, Ludlow expects many applicants for his upcoming courses at The New York School of Gambling, which has been approved by the New York State Department of Education. He, and other professional instructors, will teach courses in craps ($50, including books and materials), roulette, baccarat and 21 ($450). Explaining the cost variation, he says, "Craps is the most complicated" of the games.

None of the gambling tables jobs, whether croupier or dealer, takes a great deal of inborn intelligence. "You have to have manual dexterity to some degree - you can't be all thumbs - and you should know the rudiments of multiplication and addition, though you needn't be an expert at it. But most of all, you have to be able to deal with 'bad news' - which comes in human form, all shapes and sizes."

People go into dealing at casinos for two basic reasons: plain, simple employment, or fun and excitement. "I got into it at Tahoe, for the fun and excitement," says Ludlow, who notes that the pay is not high, but the tips can be excellent. "I thought it was going to be a lot more fun than it was. I learned an awful lot about what people are like."

"You talk about grim-faced dealers. Well, that's because they have to deal with more than cards. The annual turnover is very high, about 20 per cent. If you see sourpuss dealers, it's not necessarily a house policy. Sometimes it's because they've been dealing to monsters."

NEW YORK (AP) — With housing prices continuing to rise, government officials, homebuilders and others will be watching the statistics to see if the rate of home ownership, the highest in the world, begins to slip.

So far it hasn't. More than 60 per cent of the nation's housing is owner-occupied, and the current pace of some 2 million starts a year suggests it will hold in that range for the time being.

Many of the new units being built, however, are in multifamily dwellings — rental units, that is. If the pace quickens, it could mean the gradual reversal of a trend that is nearly 30 years old.

It began in the post-World War Two days, when the percentage of owner-occupied dwellings was less than 50 per cent, a rate that had prevailed in every decade since before the turn of the century.

Through the use of government-backed mortgage loans and mass production techniques, the nation's landscape became dotted with single-family units during the 1950s, and the owner-occupied percentage rose sharply. It reached 62.9 per cent in 1970.

The period was marked by the greatest financial mobility in the nation's history, accompanied by vast social changes. Fields were turned into towns as the new concept of the good life created an exodus from core cities.

There is no assurance it will continue. Financial, demographic, social and cultural conditions have changed. Money is expensive and so is wood. A surge of singles, urban-oriented, is developing. The price of heating oil is high and so is commuting from the suburbs. The urban rental units look a bit more appealing.

While there is housing to be found at almost any price, providing the purchaser is able to exercise ingenuity and perhaps a good deal of daring, the median price of new single-family homes rose to $44,200 in 1976.

Compare that with a median of $35,900 in 1974. Note the percentage increases: 10.5 per cent in 1974, 9.5 in 1975 and 12.5 per cent last year. Faster than prices in general, faster than wage increases.

In 1972, nearly 60 per cent of all new, single-family homes were offered at a price less than $30,000, says the U.S. League of Savings Associations. Last year only 12 per cent of homes fell below $30,000.

At a selling price of $44,200 the median-priced home may represent an investment of more than $100,000 before the purchaser owns it fully, and this figure does not include taxes, maintenance or repairs.

It is figures such as this that convince some sociologists that young Americans are bound to rebel against what has often been termed the American dream, the ownership of a single-family house on a separate plot.

But ask real estate people and they tell you the signs aren't very obvious. Yes, they concede, the suburbs have lost some of their fascination. And true, young couples are reinvesting in downtown areas.

But if you probe the psyche of most young house-seekers, they say, you'll find they are remarkably like their parents, and they want a house like the one in which they grew up. Or better.

Dayton Police Ratify Contract

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Ronald Brandenburg, president of the Dayton Fraternal Order of Police, said a three-year contract ratified by members Tuesday "will make our department competitive with other police departments in the state."

The new pact will increase top annual pay for Dayton policemen from $14,851 to $17,596, including cost of living allowances, Brandenburg said. It provides a $1.32 hike in hourly base pay over the three years.

The contract, which is retroactive to Feb. 28, now must be approved by the city commission, which next meets Aug. 31.

Agreement was reached on the pact during a marathon negotiating session last weekend after nine months of bargaining. It followed settlement with city firemen earlier this month after a 59-hour strike.

The firefighters' contract provided a total of 50 cents an hour more in wages and cost of living pay over two years, plus a reduction in the work week from 52 to 50 hours.

Speaking Of Your Health

Every few months I have an attack of pain in my abdomen. No one has been able to find the cause. The odd thing is that the pain seems to shoot in different directions at different times. Can you explain this?

Mrs. E.E.C., Nev.

Dear Mrs. C.: Radiation of pain is a very common problem. Diseases of the gall bladder, which lies high on the right side of the abdomen, and under the liver, frequently direct shooting pain to the back and right shoulder.

Stones in the kidney, or in the ureter that leads from it, send sharp, shooting, stabbing and intense pain down into the groin.

Problems with the pancreas cause dull, persistent aches in the lower back.

A penetrating pain high in the abdomen may be caused by stomach or duodenal ulcers.

In the case of women, infections and inflammation of the Fallopian tubes and the ovaries may cause radiating pains down to the inner side of the thighs.

All of this should give you some idea of how difficult it is to interpret the cause of abdominal pain. And this does not include all the intestinal problems, attacks of chronic appendicitis and diverticulitis that can be responsible. It also indicates how astute the doctor must be in differentiating pain, its character, its location and then in tracking down its source.

It's difficult to believe that no one has been able to find the cause of your abdominal pain. "No one" seems to suggest that although a number of doctors have been consulted, perhaps you did not give any single one of them sufficient time to adequately study your problem.

How do you feel about boxing as a sport for young high school students? When I objected to it, I was accused of making a sissy out of my 17-year-old son. The "sissy" just had his nose broken in a school boxing match.

Mrs. C.C., Tex.

Dear Mrs. C.: A body contact sport like boxing is an excellent form of exercise. It is artistic and can be a source of fun.

What I don't understand is this: Hockey players are made to wear protective gear. The baseball player wears a protective helmet while at bat. Football players and lacrosse players are well padded and protected against severe injuries.

Many states make it illegal for motorcyclists not to wear protective headgear.

Why, then, are there no laws requiring protective headgear for both amateur and professional fighters? Is bludgeoning a man into unconsciousness a real index of a manly sport?

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The firemen at one of Columbus' fire stations may have given up trying to become police officers after one of the firefighters tried on handcuffs and couldn't get them off.

When the keys to the set of "antique" cuffs wouldn't come off fireman Henry Warren's right wrist, his colleagues sent for the police.

But that didn't work, because the officers' keys wouldn't unlock the cuffs. There wasn't time to send to Vinton County, nearly 30 miles away, where the cuffs were issued, to get another key.

So they did the next best thing. "We had to take a pair of bolt cutters to get them off," said Officer Paul Clark.

Clark and Sgt. Ralph E. Casto said they felt the firemen had given up any ambitions to be police officers.

"The last time we saw him (Warren), he was waxing the truck," Clark said.

Daydreamers Misunderstood

Daydreaming has a bad reputation, and probably deserves it. Even poets, who themselves stand accused of the vice, have said many harsh words about dreams and dreamers.

Shakespeare's Caesar says contemptuously of the sooth-sayer: "He is a dreamer; let us leave him," and passes on.

But not all of today's psychiatrists condemn daydreaming. Most children feel more or less anxiety. A reasonable amount of daydreaming may help them cope with it.

It follows it really shouldn't be difficult to understand that a child who is daydreaming actually may be applying a wholesome measure of psychotherapy to his anxieties.

If so, he is showing better sense than the adults who try to stop him. There are, in short, good and bad daydreams. Trying to sort them can drive a parent to distraction.

Snake Eyes On Boardwalk?

NEW YORK — If everything goes according to Hoyle (and political plan), Atlantic City will open the first legal gambling casinos in the northeast by next Easter.

I don't plan to attend. Casinos make me nervous.

"A shame," said a man who ran a casino in Las Vegas for a quarter of a century. "You women, you know, are usually luckier than your men. But a very small percentage of you," explained the expert, Major Riddle, "capitalize on your luck. It's depressing to see how you behave. The more you win, the less you bet."

Dayton Police Ratify Contract

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Ronald Brandenburg, president of the Dayton Fraternal Order of Police, said a three-year contract ratified by members Tuesday "will make our department competitive with other police departments in the state."

The new pact will increase top annual pay for Dayton policemen from $14,851 to $17,596, including cost of living allowances, Brandenburg said. It provides a $1.32 hike in hourly base pay over the three years.

The contract, which is retroactive to Feb. 28, now must be approved by the city commission, which next meets Aug. 31.

Agreement was reached on the pact during a marathon negotiating session last weekend after nine months of bargaining. It followed settlement with city firemen earlier this month after a 59-hour strike.

The firefighters' contract provided a total of 50 cents an hour more in wages and cost of living pay over two years, plus a reduction in the work week from 52 to 50 hours.

Problems with the pancreas cause dull, persistent aches in the lower back.

A penetrating pain high in the abdomen may be caused by stomach or duodenal ulcers.

In the case of women, infections and inflammation of the Fallopian tubes and the ovaries may cause radiating pains down to the inner side of the thighs.

All of this should give you some idea of how difficult it is to interpret the cause of abdominal pain. And this does not include all the intestinal problems, attacks of chronic appendicitis and diverticulitis that can be responsible.

It also indicates how astute the doctor must be in differentiating pain, its character, its location and then in tracking down its source.

It's difficult to believe that no one has been able to find the cause of your abdominal pain. "No one" seems to suggest that although a number of doctors have been consulted, perhaps you did not give any single one of them sufficient time to adequately study your problem.

How do you feel about boxing as a sport for young high school students? When I objected to it, I was accused of making a sissy out of my 17-year-old son. The "sissy" just had his nose broken in a school boxing match.

Mrs. C. C., Tex.

Dear Mrs. C.: A body contact sport like boxing is an excellent form of exercise. It is artistic and can be a source of fun.

What I don't understand is this: Hockey players are made to wear protective gear. The baseball player wears a protective helmet while at bat. Football players and lacrosse players are well padded and protected against severe injuries.

Many states make it illegal for motorcyclists not to wear protective headgear.

Why, then, are there no laws requiring protective headgear for both amateur and professional fighters? Is bludgeoning a man into unconsciousness a real index of a manly sport?

Fireman Handcuffed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The firemen at one of Columbus' fire stations may have given up trying to become police officers after one of the firefighters tried on handcuffs and couldn't get them off.

When the keys to the set of "antique" cuffs wouldn't come off fireman Henry Warren's right wrist, his colleagues sent for the police.

But that didn't work, because the officers' keys wouldn't unlock the cuffs. There wasn't time to send to Vinton County, nearly 30 miles away, where the cuffs were issued, to get another key.

So they did the next best thing. "We had to take a pair of bolt cutters to get them off," said Officer Paul Clark.

Clark and Sgt. Ralph E. Casto said they felt the firemen had given up any ambitions to be police officers.

"The last time we saw him (Warren), he was waxing the truck," Clark said.

Dollar Value Of U.S. Farm Exports Headed For Decline

WASHINGTON (AP) — The dollar value of U.S. farm exports appears headed for its first decline in nearly a decade next fiscal year, according to Agriculture Department analysts.

Although the yearly increases recently have eased from their soaring climb of a few seasons ago, the value of the exports has climbed steadily since they dipped 9.4 per cent in 1968-69 to about $5.8 billion from $6.4 billion the

Public Opposes Paying Bills For Public Utilities

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — According to a survey being conducted at the Ohio State Fair, the public opposes the billing of utilities customers for company advertising, rate case expenses or charitable contributions.

The state's consumers' counsel has released preliminary results from the survey that show people think utilities' stockholders should bear the cost of such expenses.

Close to 770 persons from 68 of Ohio's 88 counties have responded to a questionnaire being distributed from the consumers' counsel booth in the Buckeye Building during the fair.

Ninety-one per cent said stockholders should pay for utilities' advertising costs and charitable contributions. Eighty-six per cent said they should also pay for the expense of bringing a rate increase case to the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio.

Under Ohio law, the PUCO allows utilities to pass such costs to customers if they are considered "reasonable."

Forty-six per cent of those questioned said they own stock in a utility company. Seventyfour per cent of the stockholders agreed that they should pay for rate cases and charitable contributions while 68 per cent were willing to pay for advertising.

Consumers' Counsel William A. Spratley said the survey will be conducted through the fair's run and will

Carter Likes Jeans, Boots But Not Ties

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's fondness for blue jeans and work boots has been chronicled amply. And there has been ample comment about the aversion to ties shown by his chief aide, Hamilton Jordan.

But hidden in a White House basement inner sanctum, near a sign on a door that says "Situation Room," is a man whose sartorial habits would have gone unnoticed were it not for a shockingly loud tie he wore recently with an otherwise conservative outfit.

His name is Jerrold Schecter. He's the spokesman for the National Security Council.

He showed up for work one day wearing a wide tie, decorated with nearly iridescent flowers. It prompted White House Press Secretary Jody Powell to talk at some length about the neighborhoods in which Schecter shops for clothes.

As Powell began his daily news briefing for several dozen reporters, Schecter stood in a doorway of the briefing room, as usual, to assist the press secretary in answering questions related to foreign policy.

The press secretary took one look at Schecter and couldn't resist a few comments about the NSC spokesman and his ties.

"He roams the streets of disreputable neighborhoods and cuts them from the necks of people passed out against the sides of buildings," Powell suggested.

Remember last winter when the President told everyone during the natural gas shortage to turn the thermostats down to 68 degrees? He made a point of letting us know he was making sure the White House thermostats were turned down.

previous year.

For the fiscal year that ends Sept. 30, farm exports are expected to be a record $24 billion, up from less than $22.8 billion in 1975-76.

But while actual export tonnages are expected to decline only slightly in the coming year, prices of some commodities — mainly grains — have tumbled sharply because of large harvests in the United States and be used at meetings and functions members of his staff attend in the future.

Among the performers in the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Thrill Circus at the fair this week is a man whose family tradition includes a cannon act dating back to 1920.

Hugo Zachini is shot daily from a cannon invented and built by his father who started the act after graduating in mechanical engineering from the Polytechnic Institute in Turin, Italy.

The cannon has a metal tube inside the barrel like a metal elevator, Zachini said. Pressure is built up inside the barrel, and the air expands like a spring pushing the elevator out.

Further details about how the cannon works are a family secret, but Zachini says others have tried to imitate the act.

"They came and they went, just like a fad," he said.

It's a dangerous livelihood, the human projectile warned. Several years ago in Spain a cannon fired as the performer was climbing in and smashed him, Zachini said.

To protect himself from abrasions when he hits the net after flying about 180 feet through the air, Zachini wears a leather suit.

He says the worst injuries he has suffered are a broken ankle and injured back incurred in 1965 when the net collapsed and he hit a wooden stage.

electricity? The White House maintenance staff dutifully followed his orders and the thermostats went up at the White House.

Then one day the President was about to come down to the briefing room to speak in front of television cameras after a special conference on his energy policy. More than 100 persons crowded into the room, hot television lights were turned on and the temperature kept climbing.

A secretary to one of the President's closest advisers sized up the situation and decided a temporary policy shift would be in order.

She picked up the telephone, called an engineer, and said "The boss is going to be down in the briefing room in a few minutes." It was awfully hot, she said, wondering whether it was possible to turn up the air conditioning slightly so the President would not have to roast under the hot lights.

The problem was taken care of.

Judges Reject Appeals Of Murder Charge

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — A three-judge panel, sitting by assignment on the 5th District Court of Appeals in Canton, has rejected the appeals of two men convicted of aggravated murder in the La Cucina restaurant fire two years ago.

The judges ruled that Myron Tilton and Gary Thompson did not prove that they had attempted only to burn the Massillon restaurant and had not intended to take any lives.

Three firemen died in the Nov. 30, 1975, blaze.

The judges said the two knew when they set the fire that there was a threat of somebody being hurt or killed.

The two men are serving life sentences in the Southern Ohio Correctional Facility at Lucasville.

elsewhere.

Thus, according to USDA's Outlook and Situation Board, 1977-78 fiscal year farm exports may be down "perhaps 5 to 10 per cent" from the $24 billion estimated this season. That would put next year's export value at $21.6 billion to $22.8 billion.

The recent report said, however, that "much uncertainty exists" about the final outcome of 1977-78 farm exports and that this year's harvests — including the U.S. corn crop to be harvested this fall — will have an important bearing.

On the basis of quantity, 1976-77 farm exports are currently estimated at 100.8 million metric tons, down from almost 106.9 million tons in 1975-76. Officials said that "only a marginal decline" in tonnage is expected next year.

"Somewhat smaller shipments of feed grains, tobacco, fats and oils are expected, but shipments of wheat and soybeans are expected to increase," the report said.

Of the 100.8 million tons of exports estimated this year, 23.5 million will be wheat and flour; 50 million, feed grains; 2.1 million, rice; 15.5 million, soybeans; 1.2 million, vegetable oils; 4.5 million, oilcake and meal; 1.1 million, cotton; 300,000, tobacco; 1.3 million, fresh fruit; and 1.3 million, animal fats. A metric ton is 2,205 pounds.

There was no breakdown by commodities in the 1977-78 export tonnages, but the report said shipments of wheat and soybeans may increase while exports of feed grains, tobacco, fats and oils are expected to be "somewhat smaller" in the year ahead.

Japan continues to be the largest single foreign customer of the U.S. farmer, buying an estimated $3.9 billion worth of products this fiscal year, up from 3.4 billion in 1975-76.

By comparison, the Soviet Union is buying $1.1 billion worth of U.S. commodities this year, down from nearly $2.05 billion in 1975-76.

Most of that involves the roughly six million tons of wheat and corn the Soviets purchased for delivery in 1976-77 under terms of a five-year agreement calling for a minimum of six million tons of the two grains combined annually.

The Soviets recently purchased nearly two million tons of wheat and corn for delivery after Oct. 1, the beginning of the agreement's second year. But the Soviets also have a near-record grain harvest this year and USDA officials do not expect purchases for 1977-78 to be much more than the minimum six million tons specified in the pact. However, sales of soybeans to Russia — which are not included in the agreement — may increase, officials said.

Coffee Price Panel Proposed

NEW YORK (AP) — Coffee industry spokesmen said today they do not know if a Mexican proposal to create a fund to regulate coffee prices worldwide will affect U.S. coffee prices.

"I don't think it would have any immediate effect, but I just don't know," said a spokesman for a national coffee organization who asked not to be identified by name. "I don't know how it would operate so it is premature to comment."

Mexico has proposed creation of a fund with contributions from both exporting and importing nations, and the plan was approved Tuesday by 11 Latin American coffee-producing nations meeting in Mexico City.

The purpose of the fund, according to a statement issued after the meeting, would be to avoid "excessive fluctuations in prices."

"We don't have enough information to really predict what is going to happen, whether or not this will affect coffee prices," said a spokeswoman for Folgers Coffee Co., a subsidiary of Procter & Gamble Co., the giant soap, toiletries and food producer.

General Foods Corp., the nation's largest coffee producer, had no immediate comment.

Mexican officials said they would go to Nairobi, Kenya, later this month to seek support for the fund from African coffee producers.

Pointers For Selecting Quality Honeydew Melons

We are currently in the middle of the peak season for purchasing quality honeydew melons at reasonable prices. The following pointers will help you with your selection.

Honeydew melons are bluntly oval in shape and usually weigh from four to eight pounds. They are whitish-green in color, and change to creamy white or creamy yellow when fully ripe. The rind is firm and usually very smooth, but may occasionally show traces of netting. Honeydews keep well and may be held for ripening at ordinary temperatures.

To be sure of the most desirable quality, honeydew melons should be fully ripe, with creamy outer color and pale green flesh which is sweet, juicy and fine textured.

In addition to color, ripeness may be indicated by a faint pleasant fruity aroma, and by a slight softening at the blossom end. Since these melons are usually cut from the vine when harvested, the condition of the stem does not indicate the stage of maturity.

Lead Counsel Named In Beverly Hills Fire Suit

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Two attorneys from Newport, Ky., and Cincinnati were named by U.S. District Court Judge Carl Rubin as lead counsel in the Beverly Hills fire suits Tuesday.

Rubin named William O. Bertelsman of Newport and Louis F. Gilligan of Cincinnati as the first members of a five-man lead counsel committee for the plaintiffs.

The selection of Bertelsman and Gilligan was aimed at getting pretrial action started in the complex litigation. More than $1 billion in damages are being sought in connection with the May 28 fire that killed 164 persons.

Bertelsman said the first step will be to determine the names of the witnesses.

In a related development, Rubin also gave the 4-R Corp., which owns and operated the Southgate, Ky., supper club, permission to pay $149,995 in casualty insurance proceeds to the holder of a mortgage on the property.

The judge had previously forbidden sale of the Beverly Hills property, settlement of any claim involving money or use of insurance proceeds.

Dear Abby:

Wants To Beg Off Her Bare Invitation

DEAR ABBY: I met a very nice woman a few months ago and we started going away together on weekends. Now she tells me she belongs to a nudist club and she's trying to talk me into going along with her to a nudey retreat.

I honestly don't think I could do anything like that, but I don't want her to think I'm chicken. Any suggestions? BILL

DEAR BILL: Tell her you're afraid it will be the end of your relationship if you see too much of each other.

DEAR ABBY: Our 21-year-old son recently married his high school teacher, who is 39. These two had been secretly seeing each other for three years. She was married and had two children, but because she fell in love with our son, she got a divorce.

All this was done behind our backs. We didn't know a thing about it until they had been married for nearly a month!

Now that they are married, they want us to forget the past and accept them.

We love our son but find it difficult to forget the deceit and coverup that went on during the courtship.

How should we act now that they are married?

HURT PARENTS
DEAR HURT: Accept his wife and say nothing about the past. What was, was.

DEAR ABBY: There are so many people in their 60s who are alone and lonely for companionship, and I know why.

I am a man nearly 65. I'm retired and on Social Security. I own an old car and work a few hours to keep it running.

For the past two years, I've been trying to find a lady to go steady with, but I've given up. I can't afford it.

I've met a lot of women about my age, and they are wonderful company. But the trouble is, they all expect a man to take them out a couple of nights a week, wine them and dine them, go to drive-in movies, and for drives and lunches.

One of them said, "My company should be worth that much." Well, how about MY company?

I would expect a woman to share car expenses, but if we both have about the same incomes and know how to stretch a dollar, we could have a wonderful time if we shared expenses. Neither

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Wants To Beg Off Her Bare Invitation

DEAR ABBY: I met a very nice woman a few months ago and we started going away together on weekends. Now she tells me she belongs to a nudist club and she's trying to talk me into going along with her to a nudey retreat.

I honestly don't think I could do anything like that, but I don't want her to think I'm chicken. Any suggestions?

BILL

DEAR BILL: Tell her you're afraid it will be the end of your relationship if you see too much of each other.

DEAR ABBY: Our 21-year-old son recently married his high school teacher, who is 39. These two had been secretly seeing each other for three years. She was married and had two children, but because she fell in love with our son, she got a divorce.

All this was done behind our backs. We didn't know a thing about it until they had been married for nearly a month!

Now that they are married, they want us to forget the past and accept them.

We love our son but find it difficult to forget the deceit and coverup that went on during the courtship.

How should we act now that they are married?

HURT PARENTS

DEAR HURT: Accept his wife and say nothing about the past. What was, was.

DEAR ABBY: There are so many people in their 60s who are alone and lonely for companionship, and I know why.

I am a man nearly 65. I'm retired and on Social Security. I own an old car and work a few hours to keep it running.

For the past two years, I've been trying to find a lady to go steady with, but I've given up. I can't afford it.

I've met a lot of women about my age, and they are wonderful company. But the trouble is, they all expect a man to take them out a couple of nights a week, wine them and dine them, go to drive-in movies, and for drives and lunches.

One of them said, "My company should be worth that much." Well, how about MY company?

I would expect a woman to share car expenses, but if we both have about the same incomes and know how to stretch a dollar, we could have a wonderful time if we shared expenses. Neither

Consumer Federation Backs Higher Grain Price Supports

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Consumer Federation of America, which threw its considerable lobbying weight behind the successful House campaign last month to assure substantially higher government supports for 1977 wheat and feedgrain crops, is calling in its chips.

"Consumer Federation would like to continue working with farmers on mutually beneficial legislation, particularly the creation of an Agency for Consumer Protection, the federation's number-one priority," a recent three-page news release from the organization says.

That's the closest the release comes to a pitch for "cards and letters to your congressman" in support of the consumer-agency bill, tentatively scheduled to be voted on in the House next month.

But congressional staff aides say privately that there should be no doubt about a trade-off of votes after the effort it took to secure the higher supports in the face of opposition from President Carter, the Agriculture Department and the House leadership, all of whom support the proposed consumer agency.

Accompanying the news release was a letter from Iowa Democratic Rep. Tom Harkin's office, thanking the consumer federation for "your active support...in helping smaller family farmers to stay in business."

Twelve other Democrats from grain states signed the letter. It reviewed the consumer group's past activities on behalf of small farmers and its refusal to support the 1973 beef boycott that produced long-lasting antagonisms between the cattle industry and consumer groups.

"Unfortunately, many farmers and consumers have operated under the mistaken notion that there exists an inherent and irreversible polarity between farmers and consumers. There does not!" the letter says.

Three Midwest Republicans garnered about 100 votes for higher supports to give Harkin and Reps. Glen English, D-Okla., and Max Baucus, D-Mont., the leverage needed to persuade urban representatives to go along.

The federation's release said, "The proposed non-regulatory agency would be an inflation and bureaucracy fighter benefitting both urban and rural consumers."

Past efforts at passing the consumer agency bill have picked up amendments exempting agricultural activities which, in turn, have soured urban congressmen whose constituents want a closer watch on food marketing.

The consumer group says, "Farm consumers have been particularly hard hit by the inflationary price increase in such commodities as farm machinery, fuel and petrochemical fertilizers."

An active consumer protection agency, it said, would help farmers by, for example, compiling information for an investigation of "dramatic, outrageous" increases in the prices of farm machinery and replacement parts in the last four years.

It also could argue for lower freight rates for farm commodities "which would decrease the spread between retail and farm prices and reduce consumer dissatisfaction with middlemen profits, which is sometimes mistakenly directed toward farmers."

CACTUS BLOOM — John Steinhauser of 1028 Georgia Road is shown displaying a blooming cactus plant. The flower is larger than the plant and is unusual as the plants of this type seldom bloom in just two years. Mr. and Mrs. Steinhauser have a vegetable garden in their back yard as well as a variety of flowering and green plants.

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — Distribution of sludge to volunteer farms in Allen County has resumed after city officials determined the level of the chemical compound PCB in the sludge was safe.

Utilities director Galen Gault said Environmental Protection Agency test results showed the sludge contained .79 of one part per million of the polychlorinated biphenyls, well below accepted tolerance levels.

Production of PCB, a member of the same chemical family as insecticides, was outlawed in the United States by the Food and Drug Administration when it was determined to be dangerous if ingested in significant quantities.

Gault said there was no evidence that the PCB would transfer from soil to plants.

The city was distributing sludge free for farmers to use as fertilizer. The program was halted three weeks ago when the PCB level was questioned.

Ohio Realtors On National Panel

CHICAGO, (AP) — Seven members of the Ohio Association of Realtors offered their expertise to the National Association of Realtors Conference Wednesday in a study of how boards of realtors and state associations can become more involved in neighborhood revitalization projects.

Rehabilitation of German Village in Columbus and the Ohio association's program honoring individual homeowners for rehabilitation efforts were among the topics discussed.

The Ohio realtors involved were Horace Boesch, Jr. Dayton; Dale Marks, Canton; Alice Lyzckowski, Toledo; and Robert Weiler, James Spatz and Richard and Rick Ward, all of Columbus.

GM To Increase Prices An Average Of $406

DETROIT (AP) — Prices on General Motors' new cars are going up an average $406 a vehicle this fall, according to the nation's largest automaker.

The increase — near six per cent from a comparably equipped 1977 car — means the suggested manufacturers' price of a 1978 GM car, including options, will climb to an estimated $7,200.

That price does not include taxes or discounts that dealers usually offer buyers.

GM, which builds more than half the cars produced in the country, announced Tuesday that base prices on its new cars are going up $242, or 4.6 per cent, on the average, from 1977.

Including added-cost options, GM estimates its average 1978 car will carry a price that is up $387, or 5.7 per cent, over a comparable 1977 car.

On top of that, shipping charges are being raised an average $18, which raises the per unit increase to $406.

GM previously indicated it might raise car prices by up to six per cent, on the average, because of increased costs for materials and labor, and despite record profits.

GM, the industry's pricing leader because of its size, traditionally is the first domestic automaker to set prices for the new model year, which officially begins Oct. 1.

Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp. have said earlier that they too were considering six per cent price increases.

Last year, GM raised prices on 1977 models by an average $338, or 5.9 per cent.

"The price increases for 1978 are substantially less than increases in the cost of raw materials and labor which occurred during the past year," GM said in a prepared statement. "Steel, aluminum, lead, glass and plastics are all up. GM's labor costs have risen more than 11 per cent in the past year."

In 1976, GM earned a record $2.9 billion. The firm is running well ahead of that pace this year, with profits of $2 billion in the first half, including $1.1 billion in the second quarter.

GM did not release base prices for 1978-model Cadillacs, the Chevrolet Chevette and the firm's new intermediate cars, which have been made shorter and lighter for 1978. GM said prices on those cars would be announced during late September and early October.

For its other cars, new-model base vehicle prices ranged from $3,462 for the subcompact Chevrolet Monza Coupe to $8,899 for the luxury Oldsmobile Toronado.

GM also disclosed that Oldsmobile will charge between $740 and $850 for an optional diesel engine on its full-sized cars. The 350-cubic-inch V-8 is expected to provide 25 per cent better fuel economy than a comparable gasoline-power engine.

Rock Star Sued For $15 Million

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rock star Rod Stewart has been sued for $15 million by Swedish actress Britt Eklund, with whom he lived for 2½ years.

The couple split up 10 days ago when Stewart moved out of the home they shared in the exclusive Holmby Hills section of Los Angeles.

Miss Eklund's complaint states that the couple began living together two days after they met in March 1975, and that a few weeks later they publicly announced their "love relationship" and intent to deemphasize her career to further his.

The actress claims that she helped to promote his record albums, applied his makeup at rock concerts and counseled and supported him in his career.

Her help contributed to $10 million of Stewart's earnings and another pending $20 million recording contract, the complaint states.

Miss Eklund asks the court to order Stewart to continue paying the mortgage on her home and to pay her $5,000 a month support until the suit is settled.

GM did not release base prices for 1978-model Cadillacs, the Chevrolet Chevette and the firm's new intermediate cars, which have been made shorter and lighter for 1978. GM said prices on those cars would be announced during late September and early October.

For its other cars, new-model base vehicle prices ranged from $3,462 for the subcompact Chevrolet Monza Coupe to $8,899 for the luxury Oldsmobile Toronado.

GM also disclosed that Oldsmobile will charge between $740 and $850 for an optional diesel engine on its full-sized cars. The 350-cubic-inch V-8 is expected to provide 25 per cent better fuel economy than a comparable gasoline-power engine.

Rock Star Sued For $15 Million

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rock star Rod Stewart has been sued for $15 million by Swedish actress Britt Ekland, with whom he lived for 2½ years.

The couple split up 10 days ago when Stewart moved out of the home they shared in the exclusive Holmby Hills section of Los Angeles.

Miss Ekland's complaint states that the couple began living together two days after they met in March 1975, and that a few weeks later they publicly announced their "love relationship" and intent to deemphasize her career to further his.

The actress claims that she helped to promote his record albums, applied his makeup at rock concerts and counseled and supported him in his career.

Her help contributed to $10 million of Stewart's earnings and another pending $20 million recording contract, the complaint states.

Miss Ekland asks the court to order Stewart to continue paying the mortgage on her home and to pay her $5,000 a month support until the suit is settled.

Motorists May Turn Left On Red

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Effective at midnight tonight, Ohio will have a new law allowing motorists to make left turns on red into one way streets — unless local officials have prohibited them.

The statute is similar to one enacted July 1, 1975, authorizing right turns on red in similar situations, with one key exception. Right turns may be made on red into two-way streets, unless posted.

Rep. Norman A. Murdock, F21 Cincinnati, won easy approval of his left turns legislation this year following good reports on the earlier right turn law.

Traffic officials from around the state said it not only facilitated the movement of traffic, without posing unnecessary risk, but also had the advantage of saving energy. It saves gasoline otherwise wasted as engines idle while the driver waits on lights to change, some said.

The left turn legislation could go a step further in the future, based on laws now on the books of nine other states, including neighboring Michigan. They allow left turns into one way streets from two lane highways, under certain restrictions.

Sponsors of the legislation stress that in each instance, pedestrians and approaching traffic — in the street into which the turn is being made — must be given the right of way.

Five other measures enacted by the legislature and approved by Gov. James A. Rhodes also become effective at midnight. They include one that gives high school graduates a broader choice of colleges and universities without boosting costs.

Under the legislation, Ohio's Board of Regents can enter into reciprocal agreements with neighboring states with regard to tuition and fees.

The arrangements would mean that an Ohio student could attend a college or university in Michigan or Indiana — for instance — for the same cost he would have had to pay at an Ohio institution, if the state he selects has an agreement with Ohio.

The law specifies that the board of regents must keep the number of students studying in other states about the same as those coming into Ohio to attend its colleges and universities. And each such agreement will have to be approved by the state controlling board.

Sponsors of the legislation say students living in Toledo, Dayton, Youngstown, and other cities near state boundaries probably will be the chief beneficiaries. In some instances, they could attend classes out of state while living at home.

Other bills taking effect include those that beef up the powers of township park districts, permit Ohio corporations to operate foreign trade zones to temporarily hold foreign merchandise duty free, clarify that locomotives must sound their whistles at 1,320 feet from crossings, and increase nonresident fishing license fees from $10 to $14.

Licking County Jail Escapees Recaptured

NEWARK, Ohio (AP) — Three men who escaped from the Licking County Jail early Wednesday were recaptured a short time later, the sheriff's department reported.

Jerry Lee Price, 27, and Arthur Holman, 26, were apprehended outside a Delaware home. Officers said the pair had been hired by a Delaware moving company and were helping load a family's belongings. They were not armed and offered no resistance, officers said.

The third escapee, Robert Seymour, 20, was arrested in Mount Vernon by Knox County sheriff's deputies.

The three men, all from the Newark area, broke a lock on their cellblock and sawed their way through bars over a window, deputies said.

Ohio Contractors Oppose Unemployment Legislation

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A labor-backed bill raising unemployment benefits could in some instances reward "thievery and misconduct," a spokesman for Ohio contractors warned a Senate subcommittee Wednesday.

Ray Manley, one of several representatives of business and industry opposed to the bill, said his group, the Associated Contractors of Ohio, was resigned to passage of another unemployment bill, already approved by the House.

But Manley said the labor bill, sponsored Sen. Thomas E. Carney, D-32 Girard, and supported by the AFL-CIO, would add an extra burden of $13 million a year in premiums for the construction industry alone.

Even worse, he said, is a clause that would allow a fired worker "to benefit from his own illegal acts."

"It is shocking to read in line 1651 that if an employee is fired for dishonesty—for stealing from the company—he will still be eligible for unemployment compensation," said Manley, controller of the Dugan & Meyers Construction company in Cincinnati.

He said the denial of benefits for 10 weeks in such a case, as called for by the bill, amounted to no more than "a slight slap on the wrist."

The Senate Commerce and Labor subcommittee recessed without taking action on either bills, but Chairman William F. Bowen, D-9 Cincinnati, said the House bill would be readied for action on the Senate floor when the legislature returns for two weeks on Sept. 19.

That bill, sponsored by Rep. Leonard J. Camera, D-53 Lorain, is viewed as a "must" because of federal requirements and Manley said contractors "reluctantly" supported it.

It would extend benefits to some agricultural workers, nonpublic school employees, substitute teachers, domestic workers, probationary civil service employees, and pregnant women.

It would also raise the base level for unemployment premiums from the first $4,200 earned annually by an employee to the first $6,000.

Carney's bill, which could, Bowen noted, be partly incorporated into the House plan, would raise benefit amounts from 50 per cent of a claimant's average weekly salary to 60 per cent.

It would also eliminate the one-week waiting period which forestalls the possibility of a jobless worker collecting an unemployment check and gaining re-employment all in a week's time.

Tarlton News

It also might be wise to take a lawn chair or folding chair. For those unable to attend the outdoor service, there will be an 8 a.m. service at Trinity.

Mildred Turner, who is in charge of the Bethany Homecoming, announces that the event has been cancelled for this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Murray Jr. and family Centerville, visited Tuesday with Mrs. Letha Murray and Tessie.

The carnival will feature such games as bean-bag toss, poy ball, ring-a-duck, frisbee toss, milk bottle drop and dart balloons. There will also be guided pony rides for the children.

At 3 p.m. there will be a pie eating contest for the ages 12 through 16. Clowns will also be present. Everyone is invited to attend.

OSU Economist Says Keep Existing Firms

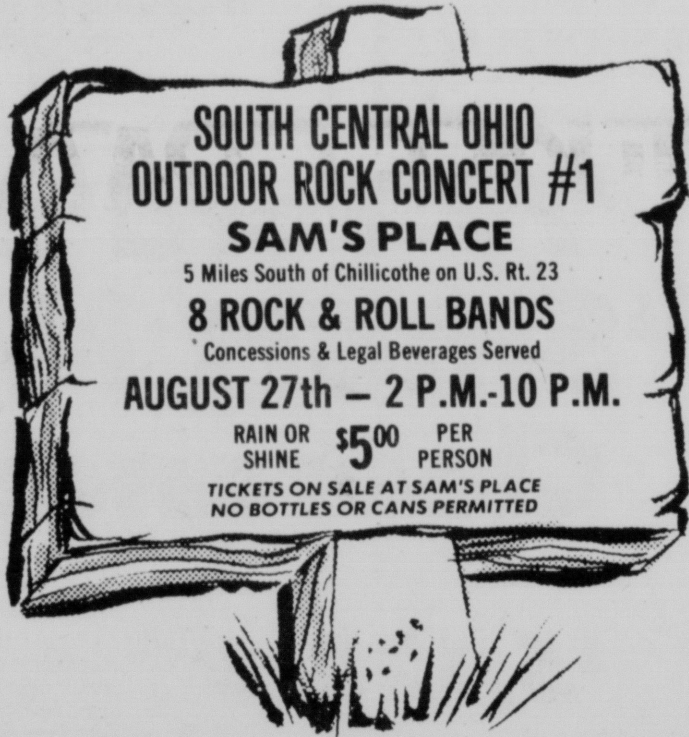

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An Ohio State University economist says the state should concentrate on keeping existing business in Ohio rather than concentrating on attracting new firms.

In an analysis of development strategies for the Ohio economy published in the university's July issue of Bulletin of Business Research, Wilford L'Esperance said that approximately 45 per cent of Ohio's gross state product comes from the manufacturing sector, making the state vulnerable to recessions.

He says that new industries should be encouraged to come to Ohio but the state's existing firms "are still the single largest source of new business and new job opportunities."

L'Esperance said one of the means of promoting both the growth of existing firms and the establishment of new firms is through a favorable state tax policy and the creation of pools of venture capital for new firms.

May 4th Coalition Loses Kent State Gym Battle

KENT, Ohio (AP) — The May 4th Coalition lost a court fight Wednesday but gained yet another 10-day construction delay in its struggle to stop Kent State University from building a controversial gym annex.

The coalition, a loose knit group of students and protesters from around the country, learned that the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals rejected its case asking a halt in construction while the federal government decides if the site should be named a national historic landmark.

"But, we've still got 10 days," a coalition member told a bandana-clad group of protesters outside the board of trustees meeting room when the decision was announced.

The group claims the proposed building will desecrate the spot where National Guardsmen shot and killed four students and wounded nine others during antiwar demonstrations on the campus in 1970.

The appellate court, in rejecting the group's appeal, agreed with U.S. District Court Judge Thomas Lam-bros, who last week said he had no jurisdiction in the case. Lam-bros, however, had continued the construction delay order while the coalition sought its hearing in Cin-cinnati.

The appeals court, while saying it would not hear the case, extended the construction delay 10 more days, allowing the protesters time to file yet another appeal in the U.S. Supreme Court.

William Kunstler, attorney for the coalition, had indicated earlier that such an appeal would be filed if the appellate court ruled against him.

Meanwhile, on Wednesday three members of the university's nine-member board of trustees met in a special session with two state legislators to talk about moving the gym.

Joyce K. Quirk, a trustee in favor of moving the building site, was joined in the meeting by trustees Robert W. Blakemore and David Dix. They met with state Rep. John A. Begala, D-62 Kent, and Sen. Marcus A. Roberto, D-18 Ravenna.

"We discussed ways the legislature might be helpful with funding the move," Mrs. Quirk said. She would not elaborate on the meeting or explain the absence of six of the nine-member board of trustees.

The meeting was thought, however, to center on Begala's proposal that the university laboratory elementary school be converted into the health and physical education annex.

His proposal has drawn still another group into the controversy. Parents of children at the school have banded together demanding that the university reject that proposal.

"We can't accept our children being drawn into this fight," Ed Buckles, a parent with two children enrolled in the school, said.

Authorities Investigate Bombings

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Authorities were awaiting the results of laboratory tests to pinpoint the type of explosives used Wednesday in the bombings of two adult bookstores just north of the city limits.

Meanwhile, Franklin County sheriff's deputies and investigators from the U.S. Treasury Department's Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms sifted rubble at the Fantasy House and Lion's Den seeking clues to the explosions.

Detectives said they had no suspects in the case.

The two stores are within 100 yards of one another in Blendon Township and have the same owners. Another adult bookstore located nearby was not touched.

Antipornography pickets from three area churches have been demon-strating in front of all three stores since July 26. But they denied any involvement in the explosions.

"I was totally shocked when I heard," said Tim Crisafulli of Maranatha Fellowship, who is coor-dinating the picketing. "It hurts our cause. We are trying to win the community and something like this really scares the community."

The demonstrators have been at the stores during evening hours.

Ralph Lemmon of the Minerva Park Church of Christ, said pressure from the group caused the closing of the Fantasy House during the evening.

A restraining order sought by the owners of the bookstores limits the number of pickets and the area around the stores in which they can demon-strate.

A woman who said she was manager of the stores said her businesses are honest ones and she finds it strange that they were the only two to be damaged.

Red Skeleton Travels Alone

SEATTLE (AP) — Red Skelton, who brought Freddie the Freeloader and Clem Kaddidhopper into the homes of millions, travels alone these days, shunning associates he claims used him and trusting only "God, my wife and myself."

The rubber-faced funnyman says those old business associates have profited while he has lost $6 million in bad business deals over the years.

Fans who spot him on the street win quick waves, giggling greetings and coy oneliners. But off-stage, Skelton speaks harshly of those associates, television, and his public.

"I trust God, my wife and myself," Skelton declared in an interview this week. "People take kindness for weakness, and generosity has the form of a sucker."

Skelton, 64, left television after 20 years. And although he's seen less these days, he still plays to sell-out audiences. He said he has an engagement every three days through next year.

"I don't have anybody around me.

When someone makes a mistake now, it's either my wife, myself or my granddaughter, Sabrina. She's only 7," Skelton wisecracked, "so she can't hurt me too much."

He was divorced from his first wife, Georgia, known as "Little Red," in 1973. She has since died. His only son died 19 years ago of leukemia at the age of 9. His daughter, Valentina, 30, lives in California with her husband and Sabrina.

Skelton writes daily love letters to his new wife, Lothian, 36.

"When I write my autobiography, they'll see a love story like they never knew before."

Love doesn't come easy to comedians, he said. "If you tell a woman she is beautiful, she thinks it's part of the routine and waits for a joke," he said.

"You sense it right away, so you don't follow through. I could never walk up to anyone and be rejected in any way, because if I was, then inside I die."

The late Groucho Marx was a respected friend. "He was the first man to tear down the dignity of man and then let it stand," Skelton said.

Skelton, at 6-feet-3 and 196 pounds, says he is in good health, but "the only exercise I get is acting as pallbearer for my friends who exercise a lot."

"I don't let it bother me. I don't know enough about life to worry about death."

Skelton criticized the medium that made him famous.

"Television gets worse every year — and it's 10 years ahead of its time," he said. "If they can create fear with violence, you'll stay home and watch the commercials and television will sell more products."

Act Would Speed Up Power Plant Licensing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration, striving to improve the United States' ability to meet its energy needs without outside help, is considering speeding up the licensing of nuclear power plants.

The newly-created Department of Energy has formulated a "Nuclear Regulatory Reform Act of 1977," which would shorten dramatically the length of time it takes for the government to approve licenses for nuclear plants.

The legislation, under consideration by Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger, would depart from the present case-by-case licensing of individual sites for custom-designed plants. The new approach would involve the advance designation of approved locations for plants or multiple-facility "nuclear parks" even before the construction of specific plants is proposed.

A draft of the proposed legislation, circulated to state governors and to the nuclear industry, was made available Wednesday to The Associated Press.

A spokesman in Schlesinger's office said comments on the draft have been requested by Aug. 29. The draft version may be modified in the light of these comments before any final version is submitted to Congress next month, he said.

A similar proposal to hasten the licensing process for nuclear power plants has been offered by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Energy Committee. The concept appears to have considerable support in Congress.

Because of concerns over safety and environmental effects, the construction and operation of nuclear power plants and fuel processing facilities has been more closely regulated than other energy-producing facilities.

While it may take five to seven years from the first proposal to the completion of a coal-fired electric generating plant, nuclear plants have been taking eight to 10 years for completion.

A large part of the extra time has been due to the federal licensing process managed by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

A nuclear power plant now requires public hearings and the issuance of an NRC permit for construction, and then must go through a similar process before it can obtain a license to start operating.

Schlesinger's draft bill, aimed at circumventing government red tape, includes authority to approve suitable locations for nuclear facilities in advance of applications for specific construction permits.

42nd Suit Filed On Supper Club

NEWPORT, Ky. (AP) — A Lebanon, Ohio, man whose 18-year-old daughter perished in the May 28 Beverly Hills Supper Club fire, has filed the 42nd suit connected with the nightclub blaze that killed 164 persons.

Attorneys filed the $10 million suit in Campbell County Circuit Court Wednesday for Keith J. Kincer, whose daughter Tammy died with her fiancé while celebrating her high school graduation.

The suit names as defendants the 4-R Corp., which owns and operated the nightclub, and a number of unknown defendants who are described as providing furnishings and equipment in the nightclub.

The total damages sought in all suits filed on behalf of Beverly Hills victims topped $1 billion earlier this month.

A meeting has been scheduled Friday morning of all attorneys for plaintiffs in both state (circuit) and federal court suits.

Appointment of additional lead counsel to simplify pretrial activity is the purpose of the meeting.

Two attorneys were named to the five-man lead counsel earlier this week.

Boys State Severs Ties With OU

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Buckeye Boys State has severed its traditional ties with Ohio University.

University officials confirmed that Boys State has informed them it will move to Bowling Green State University next year.

The annual exercise in government, sponsored by the American Legion, was held at OU from 1958 through 1970 and returned in 1975 after being held at Ashland College for four years.

OU officials told the legion that the dormitories Boys State had used in the past would not be available after this year. The Legion said other facilities offered by the school would not be satisfactory.

May 4th Coalition Loses Kent State Gym Battle

KENT, Ohio (AP) — The May 4th Coalition lost a court fight Wednesday but gained yet another 10-day construction delay in its struggle to stop Kent State University from building a controversial gym annex.

The coalition, a loose knit group of students and protestors from around the country, learned that the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals rejected its case asking a halt in construction while the federal government decides if the site should be named a national historic landmark.

"But, we've still got 10 days," a coalition member told a bandana-clad group of protestors outside the board of trustees meeting room when the decision was announced.

The group claims the proposed building will desecrate the spot where National Guardsmen shot and killed four students and wounded nine others during antiwar demonstrations on the campus in 1970.

The appellate court, in rejecting the group's appeal, agreed with U.S. District Court Judge Thomas Lambros, who last week said he had no jurisdiction in the case. Lambros, however, had continued the construction delay order while the coalition sought its hearing in Cincinnati.

The appeals court, while saying it would not hear the case, extended the construction delay 10 more days, allowing the protestors time to file yet another appeal in the U.S. Supreme Court.

William Kunstler, attorney for the coalition, had indicated earlier that such an appeal would be filed if the appellate court ruled against him.

Meanwhile, on Wednesday three members of the university's nine-member board of trustees met in a special session with two state legislators to talk about moving the gym.

Joyce K. Quirk, a trustee in favor of moving the building site, was joined in the meeting by trustees Robert W. Blakemore and David Dix. They met with state Rep. John A. Begala, D-62 Kent, and Sen. Marcus A. Roberto, D-18 Ravenna.

"We discussed ways the legislature might be helpful with funding the move," Mrs. Quirk said. She would not elaborate on the meeting or explain the absence of six of the nine-member board of trustees.

The meeting was thought, however, to center on Begala's proposal that the university laboratory elementary school be converted into the health and physical education annex.

His proposal has drawn still another group into the controversy. Parents of children at the school have banded together demanding that the university reject that proposal.

"We can't accept our children being drawn into this fight," Ed Buckles, a parent with two children enrolled in the school, said.

Authorities Investigate Bombings

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Authorities were awaiting the results of laboratory tests to pinpoint the type of explosives used Wednesday in the bombings of two adult bookstores just north of the city limits.

Meanwhile, Franklin County sheriff's deputies and investigators from the U.S. Treasury Department's Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms sifted rubble at the Fantasy House and Lion's Den seeking clues to the explosions.

Detectives said they had no suspects in the case.

The two stores are within 100 yards of one another in Blendon Township and have the same owners. Another adult bookstore located nearby was not touched.

Antipornography pickets from three area churches have been demonstrating in front of all three stores since July 26. But they denied any involvement in the explosions.

"I was totally shocked when I heard," said Tim Crisafulli of Maranatha Fellowship, who is coordinating the picketing. "It hurts our cause. We are trying to win the community and something like this really scares the community."

The demonstrators have been at the stores during evening hours.

Ralph Lemmon of the Minerva Park Church of Christ, said pressure from the group caused the closing of the Fantasy House during the evening.

A restraining order sought by the owners of the bookstores limits the number of pickets and the area around the stores in which they can demonstrate.

A woman who said she was manager of the stores said her businesses are honest ones and she finds it strange that they were the only two to be damaged.

Red Skeleton Travels Alone

SEATTLE (AP) — Red Skelton, who brought Freddie the Freeloader and Clem Kadiddlehopper into the homes of millions, travels alone these days, shunning associates he claims used him and trusting only "God, my wife and myself."

The rubber-faced funnyman says those old business associates have profited while he has lost $6 million in bad business deals over the years.

Fans who spot him on the street win quick waves, giggling greetings and coy oneliners. But off-stage, Skelton speaks harshly of those associates, television, and his public.

"I trust God, my wife and myself," Skelton declared in an interview this week. "People take kindness for weakness, and generosity has the form of a sucker."

Skelton, 64, left television after 20 years. And although he's seen less these days, he still plays to sell-out audiences. He said he has an engagement every three days through next year.

"I don't have anybody around me.

When someone makes a mistake now, it's either my wife, myself or my granddaughter, Sabrina. She's only 7," Skelton wisecracked, "so she can't hurt me too much."

He was divorced from his first wife, Georgia, known as "Little Red," in 1973. She has since died. His only son died 19 years ago of leukemia at the age of 9. His daughter, Valentina, 30, lives in California with her husband and Sabrina.

Skelton writes daily love letters to his new wife, Lothian, 36.

"When I write my autobiography, they'll see a love story like they never knew before."

Love doesn't come easy to comedians, he said. "If you tell a woman she is beautiful, she thinks it's part of the routine and waits for a joke," he said.

"You sense it right away, so you don't follow through. I could never walk up to anyone and be rejected in any way, because if I was, then inside I die."

The late Groucho Marx was a respected friend. "He was the first man to tear down the dignity of man and then let it stand," Skelton said.

Skelton, at 6-feet-3 and 196 pounds, says he is in good health, but "the only exercise I get is acting as pallbearer for my friends who exercise a lot."

"I don't let it bother me. I don't know enough about life to worry about death."

Skelton criticized the medium that made him famous.

"Television gets worse every year — and it's 10 years ahead of its time," he said. "If they can create fear with violence, you'll stay home and watch the commercials and television will sell more products."

Circleville Native To Begin Dental Practice Here

By ROBERTA SPOWE
Herald Society Editor

Dr. Dennis V. Shaw will open his office for the practice of dentistry at 213 E. Main St., on August 29.

Dr. Shaw, 24, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Shaw, 568 N. Pickaway St., and was a 1971 graduate of Circleville High School.

Following high school he attended Miami University for one year. He spent the next two years at Ohio State University, and the following three years enrolled in the college of dentistry at Ohio State.

Dr. Shaw states that upon graduation from high school he had no idea what kind of future occupation he would be interested in entering.

"I guess the turning point was Christmas vacation of my freshman year when I came home from Miami after taking general courses for the first semester. I had to go to the dentist and Dr. Marshall asked me what I was going to do with my future. I told him I was undecided and he asked me 'why not try dentistry?' That was the start of it all," Shaw said.

Dennis spent the last three quarters of his schooling at Ohio State in a clinic atmosphere, under a General Practice Program, in which about 25 out of the class of 200 are chosen to participate in a federally funded program where they are assigned an assistant which enables students to practice 'four handed dentistry.'

Dennis maintained a 3. scholastic average in dental school and took his written state boards April 25 and the clinical part the end of May.

The building where Dr. Shaw will begin his practice was purchased by Mr. Richard Shaw the end of June from its former owner, Dr. E. L. Montgomery, who retired at the end of May after 42 years of active practice.

Asked why he chose to practice in Circleville, Dr. Shaw stated that he always liked small towns and that Circleville is "home".

AT BOOKS IN THE CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

Featured this week in your public library's Children's Room are some tried and true older titles about a timely topic: school.

Children in kindergarten and primary grades will sympathize with the little girl in "What Mary Jo Shared" by Janice Udry. Everytime Mary Jo thinks of something to share at show-and-tell time someone else brings it first until Mary Jo becomes desperate for something original to bring. By the story's end, however, Mary Jo has solved her own problem quite successfully in an unusual way. (E)

A farm boy's introduction to first grade is the subject of Rebecca Caudill's "A Pocketful of Cricket." On the first day of school, young Jay brings his pet cricket along for security, survives the teasing of the "big boys and girls" on his bus, and successfully finds his classroom and desk, when he encounters real trouble:

his cricket won't stop chirping! Fortunately, an understanding and resourceful teacher turns near calamity into an ego-building experience, and all ends well. Reassuring for novice students who are anticipating school with trepidation! Illustrations by Evaline Ness. (E)

Also by Rebecca Caudill and dealing with a small rural boy's first encounter with formal education is "Did You Carry the Flag Today, Charley?" At his school someone who has been good gets to carry the flag every day, a job Charley would really like to have at least once. But, alas, Charley also possesses a large amount of curiosity that seems to keep him in constant trouble no matter how hard he tries to follow orders. A good read-aloud for primary students and a fun book for older children who have already been initiated into the "system." (Intermediate reading level)

An easy-to-read humorous book for first and second graders is Peggy Parish's "Teach Us, Amelia Bedelia." In the latest escapade of this well known bumbling maid, Amelia is accidentally called in as a substitute teacher with hilarious results. Much to the delight of her pupils, she brings chaos to the classroom faster than Dennis-the-Menace himself could. (ER)

More humor abounds in Beverly Cleary's Ramona books. "Ramona the Pest" describes Ramona Quimby's memorable entrance into kindergarten. She returns in "Ramona the Brave" where, feeling quite grown up, Ramona enters first grade and soon discovers that her teacher does not understand pupils who are different. (Fiction)

Children who like to read about the supernatural will have fun with "Ghosts Who Went to School" by Judith Spearing. Here, Wilbur Temple has been dead long enough to be quite bored with his usual ghostly activities and lack of playmates, so his parents allow him to drift into school where, predictably, puzzling things start to happen. (Fiction)

Whether you're entering kindergarten or sixth grade, you can get a different perspective on school by sharing the experiences of the boys and girls in the above books and in others in the public library. The library staff hopes all students in Pickaway County have a fulfilling and fun year in their new classes, and we invite all of you to let us help whenever we can.

Reynolds and Reynolds Hits $100 Million

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — For the first time in the company's 111-year history, annual sales for the Reynolds and Reynolds Co. hit the $100 million mark.

The amount was reached Tuesday, more than a month before the end of the firm's fiscal year.

The company produces business forms and provides electronic data processing services. Last year it had sales of $94.8 million with net profits of $1.71 per share which gave it its 18th successive year of record sales.

White House Denies Aid To Ireland

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House said today it knew of no plans to offer U.S. economic aid to Northern Ireland as an incentive to peace in the troubled British province.

British and Irish reporters had said Tuesday such a plan was being readied.

The White House had said about two months ago that ways to help Northern Ireland were under study. But an aide, asked about the new reports from London, said nothing had been decided upon.

Pre-School, Y Tots Scheduled By YMCA

Do you have a child at home who is, or will be, four years of age by September 30?

The YMCA Pre-School Program may be just the thing to get your child prepared for the big step of entering school.

The class will be run on an exceptionally well-planned program developed by qualified and certified teachers. The few hours your child spends in this learning atmosphere can give him the self-assurance he needs to become a good scholar.

There will be various activities to prepare your child, including a trip to a local kindergarten class. This way, your child will not only be prepared, but will know what to expect before actually starting school. Pre-school will be held on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays from 9:30 a.m. to 11:00 a.m.

Ethel Maze, a certified teacher, will instruct the class. Help make the first day of your child's education more rewarding by letting him or her have the experience pre-school can give.

For the child who is three, or will be three by September 30, the "Y Tots" is an excellent program, taught by Nancy Moshtaghi, who is also a certified teacher.

Sinatra Painting Dispute In Court

SAN DIEGO (AP) — U.S. District Court Judge Leland C. Nielsen will be asked Monday to settle the battle over who owns a painting of Frank Sinatra in a dispute that involves the artist and singer Keely Smith.

Others claiming the oil painting are Shirley Newman and Thomas Twomey, who became involved in confiscation of the painting by the federal Drug Enforcement Administration.

The DEA seized the Innocenzo Dario work from the home of Ms. Newman. She claims the painting was given to her by Twomey as collateral for a $7,000 loan.

Singer Smith, according to federal public defender John Cleary, claims in turn that the work was stolen from her.

Meanwhile, Dario filed papers asking that the painting be returned to him on grounds he is "the painter of the painting and the true and rightful owner."

White House Denies Aid To Ireland

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House said today it knew of no plans to offer U.S. economic aid to Northern Ireland as an incentive to peace in the troubled British province.

British and Irish reporters had said Tuesday such a plan was being readied.

The White House had said about two months ago that ways to help Northern Ireland were under study. But an aide, asked about the new reports from London, said nothing had been decided upon.

Pre-School, Y Tots Scheduled By YMCA

Do you have a child at home who is, or will be, four years of age by September 30?

The YMCA Pre-School Program may be just the thing to get your child prepared for the big step of entering school.

The class will be run on an exceptionally well-planned program developed by qualified and certified teachers. The few hours your child spends in this learning atmosphere can give him the self-assurance he needs to become a good scholar.

There will be various activities to prepare your child, including a trip to a local kindergarten class. This way, your child will not only be prepared, but will know what to expect before actually starting school. Pre-school will be held on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays for 10 weeks starting September 12, from 9:30 a.m. to 11:00 a.m.

Ethel Maze, a certified teacher, will instruct the class. Help make the first day of your child's education more rewarding by letting him or her have the experience pre-school can give.

For the child who is three, or will be three by September 30, the "Y Tots" is an excellent program, taught by Nancy Moshtaghi, who is also a certified teacher.

Sinatra Painting Dispute In Court

SAN DIEGO (AP) — U.S. District Court Judge Leland C. Nielsen will be asked Monday to settle the battle over who owns a painting of Frank Sinatra in a dispute that involves the artist and singer Keely Smith.

Others claiming the oil painting are Shirley Newman and Thomas Twomey, who became involved in confiscation of the painting by the federal Drug Enforcement Administration.

The DEA seized the Innocenzo Dario work from the home of Ms. Newman. She claims the painting was given to her by Twomey as collateral for a $7,000 loan.

Singer Smith, according to federal public defender John Cleary, claims in turn that the work was stolen from her.

Meanwhile, Dario filed papers asking that the painting be returned to him on grounds he is "the painter of the painting and the true and rightful owner."

TOMATO WITH A FACE — Mrs. Herman Davis found this unusual tomato in her garden in Kingston. She pointed out that it is in the shape of a face. If you look closely, you can see the tongue sticking out. Mrs. Davis has quite a large garden, and has been canning tomatoes as well as giving them away. She said the beetles didn't ruin the crops in Kingston, which is why she has "tomatoes by the bushel."

Smithsonian To Reissue Musical Show Records

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three new-old musical show records soon to be released feature such people as George Gershwin, Fred and Adele Astaire, Irving Berlin, Cole Porter, Ethel Merman, Eddie Cantor and the legendary Bert Williams.

It's an extension of the jazz reissue series produced by the Smithsonian Institution and shepherded by its director of jazz programs and popular culture, Martin Williams.

Williams combed the archives of recording companies and private collectors to reconstruct three shows from individual records made by the people who starred in them.

The shows are the "Ziegfeld Follies in 1919," Gershwin's 1924 "Lady Be Good," and Porter's 1934, "Anything Goes."

There were no original cast recordings from the beginning of the art in about 1895 until the 1940s, when Decca recorded "Oklahoma" on 78 rpm discs.

"It sold like crazy," Williams said in an interview. "It surprised everybody except maybe the guy who thought it up — and maybe even him. It is still in print and selling well."

Recording by individual artists goes back before 1900, Williams said, citing Victor Herbert. "He was a freak on records. He recorded overtures, excerpts, songs — sometimes more than once. This material is scattered over many record labels."

What Williams has done — he calls it archival reconstruction — is to hunt out original examples, and he said that in some instances he has found too much. He has outlined plans for 30 such records.

The first three will be issued in October if no hitches develop. The Smithsonian is able to draw on the archives of most record companies under an agreement that requires the records to be sold only by the Smithsonian, either in Washington or by mail. None are sold in retail outlets.

"We thought it would be quite useful if we could reconstruct shows, drawing on all possible source material, for purposes of scholarship, intellectual reasons, and entertainment," he said.

Entertainment should be the major attraction for the single LP records.

Williams began the Smithsonian reissue series in 1973 with a six-record album of classic jazz, from Scott Joplin to John Coltrane. It is still the top seller at $24.50.

Next most popular has been a 1938 Duke Ellington reissue. There have been others such as a 1923 King Oliver's Jazz Band, a 1938 Louis Armstrong and Earl Hines, 1927-37 Fletcher Henderson. Other recent releases feature Dizzy Gillespie and Teddy Wilson. All these are one or two records each.

Two Thefts Reported To Sheriff

The Pickaway County Sheriff's Office received two reports of petty theft Wednesday.

According to the report, culprits cut through the convertible top of a car belonging to Roy E. Whipple, 12393 Ridgeway Dr. in Orient while the auto was parked at the Mark Olson Body Shop in Harrisburg.

The thieves then removed a tape player-FM radio unit. Deputy Dale Parish investigated the incident.

At approximately 6:12 p.m. Wednesday Deputy Lee Gray was investigating a reported breaking and entering and theft at the residence of Dale Fout, 5064 East Street in Ashville.

While conferring on the incident with Marshall Harold Hopkins of South Bloomfield, a woman arrived at the scene with her juvenile son. The boy admitted taking part in the burglary along with two other male juveniles.

Charges of aggravated burglary and petty theft were filed against the youths.

'Little Foot' Makes Imprint With Bengals

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — "Little Foot" has made a big imprint in the Cincinnati Bengals training camp.

Chris Bahr, the diminutive kicking specialist for the Cincinnati Bengals, could be facing double duty when the National Football League opens next month.

The 5-foot-9 Bahr, nicknamed last year by veteran defensive end Coy Bacon, turned in an eye-catching performance last week in his pro debut as a punter.

Filling in for injured wide receiver-punter Pat McNally, the former Penn State kicker averaged 40.8 yards on five punts against Detroit.

Coach Bill Johnson was impressed with the speed Bahr booted the ball away.

On one occasion, he deftly evaded an oncoming Detroit player, then boomed a long punt into Lions territory.

McNally's job could be in jeopardy, if the Bengals' coaching staff feels the need to carry an extra player in another area. The 6-foot-6 Harvard product averaged a respectable 39.5 yards on 76 punts last year in his first season.

Pete Johnson has taken over the team lead in preseason rushing, with 98 yards on 25 carries for a 3.9 average. His longest gain is a 15-yard burst.

The former Ohio State scoring star continues to give veteran fullback Boobie Clark a stiff challenge for the starting job. But Clark's experience and pass-catching skills give him the inside track.

Johnson's ground-hugging style is in sharp contrast to Clark's straight-up approach.

Clark, who may be in the best shape of his career, has carried the ball 16 times for a 3.8 average. Archie Griffin has the best average, a 4.5 figure in 15 carries.

Wide receiver John McDaniel, whose brilliant game against Oakland last year opened some eyes, has been the busiest pass receiver after three preseason games.

The four-year pro from Lincoln (Neb.) University has nine receptions for a 13.6 average. McDaniel set a Bengal record last December when he hauled in nine passes for 201 yards in a 35-20 loss to the Raiders.

Hrabosky Says Strength In His Beard

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

St. Louis reliever Al Hrabosky believes his strength lies in his facial decoration.

"I feel comfortable and happy with myself," Hrabosky said Wednesday. And that can only mean bad news for opposing batters.

With his beard, Hrabosky was one of the National League's top relievers, the feared "Mad Hungarian." Then he was instructed to shave.

"Before (he was allowed to grow his beard back), I was a miserable person," Hrabosky said. "Baseball was a job. There was no fun.

"Now I'm getting happier and happier."

Hrabosky came on in the eighth inning for starter John Urrea and got the final four outs as the Cardinals edged the San Francisco Giants 3-2. In other NL games Wednesday, Los Angeles nipped Pittsburgh 2-1 in 10 innings, Atlanta edged Chicago 4-3, Cincinnati bombed New York 11-4 and Houston defeated Philadelphia 3-1.

Urrea, a rookie, gave up just four hits before Hrabosky came on in the eighth. But the St. Louis hitters didn't get that many hits off Giants' starter Ed Halicki.

Halicki was touched for three hits in the first inning, including consecutive triples by Jerry Mumphrey and Garry Templeton. But the Cardinals scored the eventual winning run in the fourth without getting a hit as Mike Anderson walked, stole second, moved to third on an infield out and scored on a wild pitch.

shelled him from the mound in the fifth with a six-run outburst.

Braves 4, Cubs 3

Jeff Burroughs scampered home from third base on a force play to give Atlanta its victory over Chicago. Burroughs led off the eighth inning with a single, was balked to second, moved to third on a single and tallied when the Cubs failed to pull off a double play on Junior Moore's grounder to short.

Reliever Don Collins, 3-9, got the victory.

Dodgers 2, Pirates 1

Lee Lacy scored on Reggie Smith's single with two outs in the 10th inning to lead Los Angeles over Pittsburgh. Smith also scored the Dodgers' first run with a solo homer in the third inning.

Lacy was walked by reliever Bruce Gossage, stole second and went to third on an infield single before Smith ended the game.

'Little Foot' Makes Imprint With Bengals

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — "Little Foot" has made a big imprint in the Cincinnati Bengals training camp.

Chris Bahr, the diminutive kicking specialist for the Cincinnati Bengals, could be facing double duty when the National Football League opens next month.

The 5-foot-9 Bahr, nicknamed last year by veteran defensive end Coy Bacon, turned in an eye-catching performance last week in his pro debut as a punter.

Filling in for injured wide receiver-punter Pat McNally, the former Penn State kicker averaged 40.8 yards on five punts against Detroit.

Coach Bill Johnson was impressed with the speed Bahr booted the ball away.

On one occasion, he deftly evaded an oncoming Detroit player, then boomed a long punt into Lions territory.

McNally's job could be in jeopardy, if the Bengals' coaching staff feels the need to carry an extra player in another area. The 6-foot-6 Harvard product averaged a respectable 39.5 yards on 76 punts last year in his first season.

Pete Johnson has taken over the team lead in preseason rushing, with 98 yards on 25 carries for a 3.9 average. His longest gain is a 15-yard burst.

The former Ohio State scoring star continues to give veteran fullback Boobie Clark a stiff challenge for the starting job. But Clark's experience and pass-catching skills give him the inside track.

Johnson's ground-hugging style is in sharp contrast to Clark's straight-up approach.

Clark, who may be in the best shape of his career, has carried the ball 16 times for a 3.8 average. Archie Griffin has the best average, a 4.5 figure in 15 carries.

Wide receiver John McDaniel, whose brilliant game against Oakland last year opened some eyes, has been the busiest pass receiver after three preseason games.

The four-year pro from Lincoln (Neb.) University has nine receptions for a 13.6 average. McDaniel set a Bengal record last December when he hauled in nine passes for 201 yards in a 35-20 loss to the Raiders.

Peter Houghton Following His Father's Footsteps

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

Peter Houghton was just 16 the first time he ever beat his well-known father in a harness race and he was 19 when he edged Bill Houghton in a $100,000 classic at Montreal.

"The first time was at a county fair in Troy, Pa., and dad, who was just checking out an untested filly, seemed quite pleased with me," young Peter recalls. "But in that $100,000 race, he had one of the best mares in the business, Handle With Care, and when I edged him out he looked as if he was in a state of shock."

"You see, that was taking money out of the old man's pocket."

Yanking money out of his father's pocket has become more than a rarity for the 22-year-old offspring, now challenging the nation's top harness driver for honors and gold.

"There's a chance this year that we will become the first father and son combination to win more than $1 million each in prize money," Peter said. "The big showdown is coming up in the Triple Crown races, starting with the $250,000 Yonkers Trot Saturday."

Peter will be driving Cold Comfort and his father will be handling a trotter named Greed Speed in the first of the Triple Crown series which also includes the historic $270,000 Hambletonian Sept. 3 and the Kentucky Futurity at Lexington Oct. 7.

They will drive the same standardbreds in the Hambletonian but, with Greed Speed ineligible, the father probably will shift to Hay Good, at Lexington.

The Kentucky Futurity is the only

Triple Crown prize which has escaped the elder Houghton, who has won two Hambletonians and three Yonkers in a remarkable career that has seen him pile up more than 4,000 driving victories with prize money amounting to $24.5 million.

For this glaring gap in his 29-year racing career, he can blame his son, Peter.

"Dad was going for the Triple Crown with Steve Lobell," the younger Houghton related. "I had a pacer named Quick Pay. It was a very satisfying win for me but a disappointment, I'm sure, for dad. He hates to lose — even to me. That's what makes him great."

The sports world has produced various father and son combinations, the most notable perhaps being the hockey playing Howes (papa Gordie and sons Mark and Marty, now with New England) but none where competition can be as close and as fierce as in the Houghton family.

Peter, a slim, tow-haired replica of his leathery dad, insists that he never was driven into harness racing. He chose the profession through exposure and immediate love.

"Dad insisted I go to college," he said. "He never twisted my arm. He never upbraided me for a bad race — and, heaven knows, I've had my share — and he never tried to alibi when I was lucky enough to beat him."

"In our personal rivalry, I suppose we have had a dozen races against each other and about broken even. I have won six in which the stakes were $100,000 or higher."

At the Syracuse State Fair last week, Peter drove Cold Comfort to a nose victory over Green Speed, driven by his father, who said, "I should have won. I had the better horse."

NFL Television Pacts Expire At End Of Season

NEW YORK (AP) — The possibility of Thursday night and, perhaps, Sunday night football appears more and more likely as the National Football League's talks with the three networks continue.

The NFL's TV contracts with NBC, CBS and ABC all run out at the close of this season. The current talks are centering on four-year contracts to cover the 1978-81 seasons. It is probable that NBC will again end up with a basic American Conference package, CBS with a National Conference package and ABC with its Monday night games.

Sources say, however, that this time around the NFL is offering a fourth package to include about a half dozen Thursday and possibly Sunday night games. And to sweeten the pot, the NFL is reportedly offering rights to the first and fourth Super Bowls in the four-year deal to whomever accepts the Thursday night package.

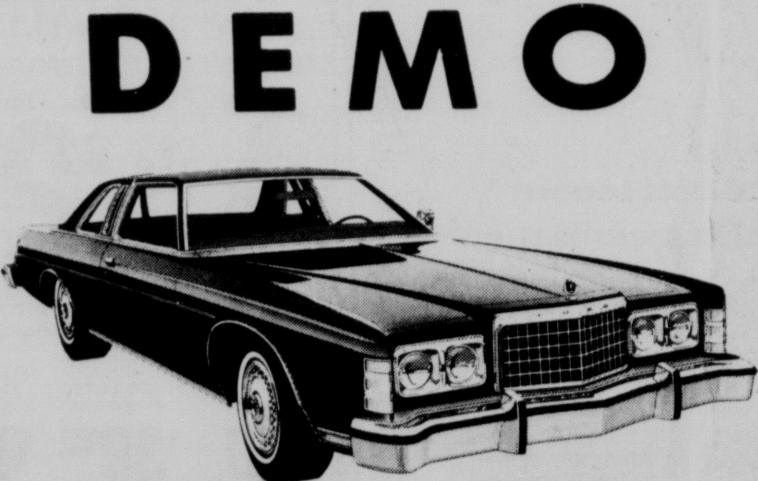

In other words, whichever network accepts the risks involved in televising football against prime time programming on Thursday and/or Sunday nights, and also agrees to the added expense, also gets two of the four Super Bowls currently being negotiated.

Sources say that CBS, currently running third in the ratings game, is definitely interested in the fourth package. NBC is interested in Thursday nights but wary of Sunday nights. ABC, which has the strongest prime time schedule, may be reluctant to give up some of its entertainment programming for another night of football. At the same time, however, ABC has been coveting the Super Bowl for some time, and may find the lure of getting two of them too much to resist.

It may not be charitable to offer such speculation but it seems a remarkable coincidence that, at a time when NBC's contract with the Soviet Union for TV rights to the 1980 Summer Olympics is due to come under Congressional scrutiny, the network executives most responsible for the deal have both been replaced.

Carl Lindemann Jr. left as vice president of sports a few months ago and now Bob Howard has been replaced as president of NBC-TV. Lindemann and Howard were the prime movers for NBC in the Olympic deal. If Congress should find some cause for concern in the contract and call NBC on the carpet, the network can now point out that "those responsible are no longer with us." Very convenient.

The new fall season is fast approaching with network programmers, like quarterbacks looking over the defense, switching signals, juggling personnel and desperately looking for an opening in enemy

Concepcion Paces Reds' Win

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Reds shortstop Dave Concepcion says he could hit .300 easy—if sliders were outlawed.

He apparently didn't see many sliders Wednesday night.

Concepcion broke out of a slump by drilling four hits to spark the Cincinnati Reds to an 11-4 victory over the New York Mets, saddling Jon Matlack with his 15th loss.

Concepcion, who singled, doubled twice and tripled, had a chance to hit for the cycle in his last at-bat, but drew a walk.

No big deal, said Concepcion, who has never hit .300.

"I wasn't swinging for a home run. I just wanted a hit for 5-for 5," he said.

"I needed that. It gets me over .270," said the slick-fielding infielder, whose average climbed to .306 on July 9 but has since plunged 40 points in the past six weeks.

Concepcion's run-scoring double ignited a four-run first inning outburst highlighted by home runs from Joe Morgan and George Foster.

It was Morgan's 19th of the year, while Foster boosted his major league-leading total to 42, 10 ahead of his closest National League rival, Jeff Burroughs of Atlanta. He remains two games behind Hack Wilson's 1930 pace when the Chicago Cubs slugger hit 56 for the National League record.

Foster has 120 runs batted in, one shy of his career-high total set last year.

Doug Capilla, possessing what he called his "best stuff" since joining the Reds, limited the Mets to three hits until he tired in the ninth. Mike Vail put the brakes on the rout with a two-run homer.

"I threw 131 pitches, but my limit is 130," quipped Capilla, referring to the home run ball. "He hit a nothing fastball. I threw the same ball past him three times before," said the young lefthander who upped his record to 6-5.

Half of his victories have come against the Mets. He has won two since joining the Reds and one with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Mets Manager Joe Torre called Capilla "one of the best lefthanders we've faced."

Reds Manager Sparky Anderson said the June 15th Capilla-for-Rawly Eastwick trade is looking better all the time.

"We got a kid who is going to be a sure star for someone who didn't want to play ball for us," said Anderson.

"He has a lot to learn, but when he came to us he had no idea at all about pitching. He is slowly grasping and learning. We knew he had a good arm, but he was wild," said Anderson.

The Reds shelved Matlack, now 6-15, for six runs in the fifth as Johnny Bench drilled a two-run double and Concepcion doubled in his second run of the game.

The series winds up tonight with Fred Norman, 11-10, facing Craig Swan, 8-7.

Rangers Sweep Rain-Delayed Twin Bill

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer
Texas and Boston spent more than eight hours at Fenway Park Wednesday night. The Rangers got a rain-delayed doubleheader sweep out of the evening; all the Red Sox got was wet. "Just a wasted evening," said Boston Manager Don Zimmer after his Red Sox dropped their eighth consecutive game and fell into a tie with Baltimore for second place in the American League East. The Rangers defeated Boston 3-0 and 6-3 in the twin-nighter, which was delayed two hours and 22 minutes in the opener.

Gaylord Perry and Adrian Devine combined to stifle the Red Sox in the opener, surrendering just three hits. Jim Sundberg's bloop double provided the only run Texas needed.

In the nightcap, Jim Mason slammed his first homer since the 1976 World Series, when he was with the Yankees, for the winning run. It was only the 12th home run of Mason's career.

Claudell Washington also homered in the contest as Texas moved into second place in the AL West, two games behind pacesetter Kansas City and .001 ahead of third-place Minnesota.

Elsewhere in the American League, Baltimore outscored Chicago 10-5, New York demolished Minnesota 11-1 and Kansas City outlasted Milwaukee 43 in 15 innings. Cleveland and California split a two-nighter, the Indians winning the opener 5-3 and California winning the nightcap, 5-2; Toronto swept a pair from Seattle, 7-0 and 9-3, and Oakland took two from Detroit, 3-1 and 6-5 in 10 innings.

Orioles 10, White Sox 5
Doug Decinces and Lee May each had three hits as Baltimore topped Chicago. The Orioles pounded White Sox' pitching for 19 hits, 14 off starter Steve Stone, 13-9.

"It looked like a rookie league game to me," said Baltimore shortstop Mark Belanger, whose third-inning error led to a Chicago run.

Yankees 11, Twins 1
A 62-minute rain delay in the first inning may have been Minnesota's undoing. After scoring a run in the top of the inning, the Twins saw Mickey Rivers double and Reggie Jackson walk for the Yankees before the rain halted play. When the game resumed, Pete Redfern immediately surrendered Chris Chambliss' 15th homer and the rout was on.

Roy White, Bucky Dent and Mickley Rivers also slammed home runs for New York, which stretched its first-place Eastern Division lead to two games. Catfish Hunter, 9-7, hurled a four-hitter for his third straight victory.

Royals 4, Brewers 3, 15 innings
John Wathan doubled home John Mayberry with the tiebreaking run, then scored what proved to be the winner on Amos Otis' single as Kansas City took its eighth straight game, lengthening its AL West lead to two games.

Doug Bird, 10-4, hurled 5 2-3 innings of one-hit relief, striking out seven, to earn the victory.

Indians 5-2, Angels 3-5
Cleveland beat Nolan Ryan in the opener, spoiling his attempt to become the AL's first 18game winner. Jerry Remy's fifth-inning error on Rico Carty's grounder allowed the winning run to score. Ryan, 17-12, fanned 10, the 102nd time in his career he has struck out at least 10 men in a game.

In the nightcap, Remy knocked in three runs to provide much of the Angels' offense.

Blue Jays 7-9, Mariners 0-3
Rookie Jerry Garvin hurled a six-hitter in the opener for his first major league shutout and his ninth complete game. Hector Torres' three-run homer and solo blasts by Ron Fairly and Doug Rader provided the offense.

Torres' knocked in three more runs in the nightcap and Jesse Jefferson hurled a six-hit complete game.

A's 3-6, Tigers 1-5
Vida Blue pitched a four-hitter and struck out seven in leading Oakland to its firstgame triumph. Jerry Tabb hit his fourth homer of the year to support Blue, 12-15, who outpitched Detroit rookie stand-out Dave Rozema, 14-5.

Oakland completed the sweep as Mitchell Page scored from second base on a 10th-inning error by Detroit shortstop Tom Verzer.

Southern Cal Has The Ammunition

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The University of Southern California football team has the ammunition for an explosive, highscoring offense this fall.

And the Trojans, second in the national polls last season, may need every one of the points they can muster.

"We have a lot of question marks on defense," says John Robinson, who guided the Trojans to an 11-1 record and a Rose Bowl victory over Michigan last season, his first as Southern Cal's head coach. "The key to our team is the improvement of the defense. The offense has the potential to be outstanding."

Only four starters are back on defense from the 1976 Trojan team that lost its opener to Missouri.

All-American safety Dennis Thurman heads the list of returning defenders, joined by cornerback Ricky Odom, linebacker Clay Matthews and tackle Walt Underwood.

"How quickly the new starters become competent veterans is the most important thing defensively for us," Robinson said.

Southern Cal lost five starters from their offense, including tailback Ricky Bell and quarterback Vince Evans. But it has very impressive underclassmen waiting in the wings. Sophomore Charles White apparently is the latest in a long line of distinguished tailbacks like Mike Garrett, O.J. Simpson, Anthony Davis and Bell.

White, a shifty 5-foot-11, 187-pound speedster, received a lot of playing time last season while Bell was hurt. He responded with 891 yards on 156 carries and finished his freshman season by gaining 114 yards on 32 carries in the Rose Bowl victory.

"Charles is USC's best breakthrough threat at tailback since O.J. Simpson," Robinson remarked. "It was hard to believe a freshman could be that good that fast."

Robinson may have White share tailback duties since the Trojans have a wealth of good runners including juniors Lynn Cain—who also plays fulback—Dwight Ford and Rod Connors. Most of all, White has the potential to be one of the best passers in the school's history. The 6-2, 185-pound senior, also a third baseman on the Trojan baseball team, completed 65 per cent of his throws last fall, hitting 30 of 46 for 452 yards and eight touchdowns.

Hertel's chief target will probably be split end Randy Simmrin, who caught 32 passes for five touchdowns and a 20.4 yards per catch average last year. Tight end William Gay, an excellent blocker, is also returning.

Southern Cal opens at Missouri and has Alabama and Notre Dame among its non-Pacific-8 Conference games.

China Eyes Olympics

SOFIA, Bulgaria (AP) — The people of northern China are born skaters, said Chang Lienhua, a member of the executive committee of Peking's powerful All-China Sports Federation.

"All around the countryside in the north you can see boys and girls nailing simple pieces of steel on their shoes and teaching themselves to skate on the frozen lakes," Chang said. "They have a natural talent for it."

Some day, one of China's teeming 800 millions may win a gold medal in speed skating at the Olympic Games — if political problems are solved and the Chinese achieve their ambition to compete.

"China is very willing to work with other countries to promote international friendship through the development of sport," Chang said in an interview with the Associated Press. "But there are clear principles which must be observed first."

Lord Killanin, president of the International Olympic Committee, goes to Peking next month to assess the chances of bringing China into the games.

Meanwhile, Chang's federation has laid its cards clearly on the IOC's table. It insists that China is one country, that Taiwan is part of it and that the IOC must withdraw its recognition of the national Olympic committee of Taiwan before China will play.

Such a proposition would split the IOC from top to bottom and probably would not be passed.

Chang, in Sofia as head of the Chinese delegation at the World University Games, suddenly emerged from the silence and aloofness which the Chinese have preserved since they applied for IOC recognition two years ago.

Charming and affable, he talked about sport in his country and its possible participation in the Olympic Games of the future.

"Basketball and table tennis are the most popular sports in China," he said. "Of course the standard of basketball is not so high. We have lacked the experience of international competition. But table tennis enjoys a very high standard in our country."

"These sports enjoy great popularity on a mass basis, in schools, in units of the People's Liberation Army and in the countryside."

Chang said soccer, track and field, swimming, volleyball and gymnastics enjoy popularity in varying degrees.

He said he hoped the IOC will follow the example of the International Federation of University Sport which runs the University Games, and recognize that there is one China.

"In these games we have had happy and friendly relations with the sportsmen of other countries."

"But now that we are friends and talking frankly, we have found that the refereeing in gymnastics is not entirely satisfactory. We have made our opinions known."

"Iron Man" Joe McGinnity pitched to iron batters also. In 1900 he hit 41 of them for a National League record.

The size of snakes ranges from five inches to 30 feet in length. Some of them weigh no more than a pencil, others are as heavy as 300 pounds.

fulback—Dwight Ford and Rod Connors. Most of all, White has the potential to be one of the best passers in the school's history. The 6-2, 185-pound senior, also a third baseman on the Trojan baseball team, completed 65 per cent of his throws last fall, hitting 30 of 46 for 452 yards and eight touchdowns.

Hertel's chief target will probably be split end Randy Simmrin, who caught 32 passes for five touchdowns and a 20.4 yards per catch average last year. Tight end William Gay, an excellent blocker, is also returning.

Southern Cal opens at Missouri and has Alabama and Notre Dame among its non-Pacific-8 Conference games.

Rangers Sweep Rain-Delayed Twin Bill

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

Texas and Boston spent more than eight hours at Fenway Park Wednesday night. The Rangers got a rain-delayed doubleheader sweep out of the evening; all the Red Sox got was wet.

"Just a wasted evening," said Boston Manager Don Zimmer after his Red Sox dropped their eighth consecutive game and fell into a tie with Baltimore for second place in the American League East. The Rangers defeated Boston 3-0 and 6-3 in the twin-nighter, which was delayed two hours and 22 minutes in the opener.

Gaylord Perry and Adrian Devine combined to stifle the Red Sox in the opener, surrendering just three hits. Jim Sundberg's bloop double provided the only run Texas needed.

In the nightcap, Jim Mason slammed his first homer since the 1976 World Series, when he was with the Yankees, for the winning run. It was only the 12th home run of Mason's career.

Claude Washington also homered in the contest as Texas moved into second place in the AL West, two games behind pacesetter Kansas City and .001 ahead of third-place Minnesota.

Elsewhere in the American League, Baltimore outscored Chicago 10-5, New York demolished Minnesota 11-1 and Kansas City outlasted Milwaukee 4-3 in 15 innings. Cleveland and California split a two-nighter, the Indians winning the opener 5-3 and California winning the nightcap, 5-2; Toronto swept a pair from Seattle, 7-0 and 9-3, and Oakland took two from Detroit, 3-1 and 6-5 in 10 innings.

Orioles 10, White Sox 5
Doug Decinces and Lee May each had three hits as Baltimore topped Chicago. The Orioles pounded White Sox' pitching for 19 hits, 14 off starter Steve Stone, 13-9.

"It looked like a rookie league game to me," said Baltimore shortstop Mark Belanger, whose third-inning error led to a Chicago run.

Yankees 11, Twins 1
A 62-minute rain delay in the first inning may have been Minnesota's undoing. After scoring a run in the top of the inning, the Twins saw Mickey Rivers double and Reggie Jackson walk for the Yankees before the rain halted play. When the game resumed, Pete Redfern immediately surrendered Chris Chambliss' 15th homer and the rout was on.

Roy White, Bucky Dent and Mickey Rivers also slammed home runs for New York, which stretched its first-place Eastern Division lead to two games. Catfish Hunter, 9-7, hurled a four-hitter for his third straight victory.

Royals 4, Brewers 3, 15 innings
John Wathan doubled home John Mayberry with the tiebreaking run, then scored what proved to be the winner on Amos Otis' single as Kansas City took its eighth straight game, lengthening its AL West lead to two games.

Doug Bird, 10-4, hurled 5 2-3 innings of one-hit relief, striking out seven, to earn the victory.

Indians 5-2, Angels 3-5
Cleveland beat Nolan Ryan in the opener, spoiling his attempt to become the AL's first 18game winner. Jerry Remy's fifth-inning error on Rico Carty's grounder allowed the winning run to score. Ryan, 17-12, fanned 10, the 102nd time in his career he has struck out at least 10 men in a game.

In the nightcap, Remy knocked in three runs to provide much of the Angels' offense.

Blue Jays 7-9, Mariners 0-3
Rookie Jerry Garvin hurled a six-hitter in the opener for his first major league shutout and his ninth complete game. Hector Torres' three-run homer and solo blasts by Ron Fairly and Doug Rader provided the offense.

Torres' knocked in three more runs in the nightcap and Jesse Jefferson hurled a six-hit complete game.

A's 3-6, Tigers 1-5
Vida Blue pitched a four-hitter and struck out seven in leading Oakland to its firstgame triumph. Jerry Tabb hit his fourth homer of the year to support Blue, 12-15, who outpitched Detroit rookie standout Dave Rozema, 14-5.

Oakland completed the sweep as Mitchell Page scored from second base on a 10th-inning error by Detroit shortstop Tom Veryzer.

Southern Cal Has The Ammunition

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The University of Southern California football team has the ammunition for an explosive, highscoring offense this fall.

And the Trojans, second in the national polls last season, may need every one of the points they can muster.

"We have a lot of question marks on defense," says John Robinson, who guided the Trojans to an 11-1 record and a Rose Bowl victory over Michigan last season, his first as Southern Cal's head coach. "The key to our team is the improvement of the defense. The offense has the potential to be outstanding."

Only four starters are back on defense from the 1976 Trojan team that lost its opener to Missouri.

All-American safety Dennis Thurman heads the list of returning defenders, joined by cornerback Ricky Odom, linebacker Clay Matthews and tackle Walt Underwood.

"How quickly the new starters

become competent veterans is the most important thing defensively for us," Robinson said.

Southern Cal lost five starters from their offense, including tailback Ricky Bell and quarterback Vince Evans. But it has very impressive underclassmen waiting in the wings. Sophomore Charles White apparently is the latest in a long line of distinguished tailbacks like Mike Garrett, O.J. Simpson, Anthony Davis and Bell.

White, a shifty 5-foot-11, 187-pound speedster, received a lot of playing time last season while Bell was hurt. He responded with 891 yards on 156 carries and finished his freshman season by gaining 114 yards on 32 carries in the Rose Bowl victory.

"Charles is USC's best breakaway threat at tailback since O.J. Simpson," Robinson remarked. "It was hard to believe a freshman could be that good that fast."

Robinson may have White share tailback duties since the Trojans have a wealth of good runners including juniors Lynn Cain—who also plays fullback—Dwight Ford and Rod Connors. Most Tatum will be the starting fullback.

"I think we could have one of the better running games USC has ever had," Robinson said. "I'm confident about our offensive line and I think we have excellent balance between Tatum and Cain at fullback and White, Cain, Ford and Connors at tailback."

Despite the host of runners, Robinson said he intends to make more use of the passing game.

In Rob Hertel, Southern Cal has a quarterback with the potential to be one of the best passers in the school's history. The 6-2, 185-pound senior, also a third baseman on the Trojan baseball team, completed 65 per cent of his throws last fall, hitting 30 of 46 for 452 yards and eight touchdowns.

Hertel's chief target will probably be split end Randy Simmin, who caught 32 passes for five touchdowns and a 20.4 yards per catch average last year. Tight end William Gay, an excellent blocker, is also returning.

Southern Cal opens at Missouri and has Alabama and Notre Dame among its non-Pacific-8 Conference games.

China Eyes Olympics

SOFIA, Bulgaria (AP) — The people of northern China are born skaters, said Chang Lienhua, a member of the executive committee of Peking's powerful All-China Sports Federation.

"All around the countryside in the north you can see boys and girls nailing simple pieces of steel on their shoes and teaching themselves to skate on the frozen lakes," Chang said. "They have a natural talent for it."

Someday, one of China's teeming 800 millions may win a gold medal in speed skating at the Olympic Games — if political problems are solved and the Chinese achieve their ambition to compete.

"China is very willing to work with other countries to promote international friendship through the development of sport," Chang said in an interview with the Associated Press. "But there are clear principles which must be observed first."

Lord Killanin, president of the International Olympic Committee, goes to Peking next month to assess the chances of bringing China into the games.

Meanwhile, Chang's federation has laid its cards clearly on the IOC's table. It insists that China is one country, that Taiwan is part of it and that the IOC must withdraw its recognition of the national Olympic committee of Taiwan before China will play.

Such a proposition would split the IOC from top to bottom and probably would not be passed.

Chang, in Sofia as head of the Chinese delegation at the World University Games, suddenly emerged from the silence and aloofness which the Chinese have preserved since they applied for IOC recognition two years ago.

Charming and affable, he talked about sport in his country and its possible participation in the Olympic Games of the future.

"Basketball and table tennis are the most popular sports in China," he said. "Of course the standard of basketball is not so high. We have lacked the experience of international competition. But table tennis enjoys a very high standard in our country."

"These sports enjoy great popularity on a mass basis, in schools, in units of the People's Liberation Army and in the countryside."

Chang said soccer, track and field, swimming, volleyball and gymnastics enjoy popularity in varying degrees.

He said he hoped the IOC will follow the example of the International Federation of University Sport which runs the University Games, and recognize that there is one China.

"In these games we have had happy and friendly relations with the sportsmen of other countries."

"But now that we are friends and talking frankly, we have found that the refereeing in gymnastics is not entirely satisfactory. We have made our opinions known."

"Iron Man" Joe McGinnity pitched to iron batters also. In 1900 he hit 41 of them for a National League record.

The size of snakes ranges from five inches to 30 feet in length. Some of them weigh no more than a pencil, others are as heavy as 300 pounds.

Views On Television

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Several years ago, public TV offered two fine shows, "The White House Transcripts" and "The Watergate Cover-Up Trial," re-enacted accounts of the end of Richard M. Nixon's era.

The guy who made those shows — with actors, stage sets and verbatim dialogue from the Watergate tapes and trial — is using the same technique again for four more it-really-happened programs.

He's Thomas McCann, who with KERA-TV in Dallas and $625,000 from the Corporation for Public Broadcasting — CPB — has come up with "Eyewitness," a public affairs miniseries for public TV.

The first one-hour show, about a jetliner crash, the Karen Ann Quinlin case and the trial of a Massachusetts masseur on a prostitution charge, is being fed stations tonight by the Public Broadcasting Service.

(Check local listings, as it may air on different nights in various areas. KCET here, for example, won't show it until Sept. 7.)

As with his first two shows, McCann says the miniseries reenacts major news stories "directly from public documents, verbatim, and we try to come as close as we possibly can to the real situation..."

But there are exceptions. In the jetliner segment, about the 1974 crash of an Eastern Airlines DC9 in South Carolina that killed 71 persons, he didn't use the names of the pilot or copilot.

This, he says, is both out of consideration to the fliers' families and because the copilot survived "and is trying to make a living again flying airplanes. There was no need to use his name."

He said the 10-minute segment, shown entirely in the plane's cockpit, uses the fliers' words as taped on a cockpit voice recorder, later made part of National Transportation Safety Board documents.

At the end, he said, newsman Andrew Macmillan recounts the board's findings on the probable cause of the accident.

McCann says "Eyewitness" is an outgrowth of a 90-minute pilot show CPB funded for $125,000 a year ago.

He said it was tested last fall in five cities — New York; Boston; Des Moines, Iowa; Birmingham, Ala., and Seattle, Washington.

"It got astonishingly high marks, so they decided to fund these four programs," he said, adding that each costs about $125,000.

He said all the series' reenactments are based only on official transcripts. Invented dialogue or dramatist's surmise is taboo.

"I think there's less chance for distortion this way than in, say, 'Missiles of October' — an ABC docu-drama on the Cuban missile crisis — 'which is largely the product of a writer's mind,'" he said.

"There's more chance for objectivity and balance."

McCann said he may seek CPB funding for six more "Eyewitness" shows in 1978. However, he added, he wants to see how the first four do.

"I don't plan to go back to CPB until I see how the viewers like it — and the reviewers," he said. "But based on the reaction we got (to the pilot) last fall, I think we're in pretty good shape."

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth sign.

FOR FRIDAY
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Not much astral help here. In general, it would be better to stick to routine matters. Perhaps, too, to take a little time to make some long-range plans.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Good offerings indicated. Stress your competence and do not hesitate to accept another's idea if practical. Creative pursuits favored.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Your fine mind and keen perception should assist you in even the most difficult of endeavors. If you don't stray off course, you can REALLY achieve now.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Mixed planetary influences. Be careful not to speak out of turn, and don't press too forcibly for what you want when a few well-chosen words could do the trick.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): You would make a big mistake if you lose control of emotions or become overly aggressive now. Take all situations in stride and problems will resolve themselves.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Watch trends; be guided by your innate sense of thoroughness and real needs. Don't let "outsiders" sway decisions, but do heed counsel from the trustworthy.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Be careful of the way in which you make your moves, whom you include in your plans. Wrong decisions could break your success pattern.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23): You may encounter what seems to be undue opposition. Take whatever steps are necessary to overcome it, but do not mistake honest discussion for hostility.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Jupiter, favorable, now promises increasing gains. But some minor situations may have to be ironed out before you go ahead with long-range projects.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Generous influences now stimulate your initiative and ambitions. Gains indicated through new enterprises, properly handled dealings with superiors, others in authority.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): An auspicious period. If you cooperate smartly, you can make up for lost time and break through any barriers to new attainment. Romance highly favored.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Plan your schedule so as to allow for handling, not only essentials, but some unexpected new activities. Be realistic, too, and do not confuse wishful thinking with "inspiration."

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a magnetic personality, unusual artistry and excellent judgment; are also idealistic, intellectually inclined and remarkably intuitive. If attracted to writing as a profession, by all means train yourself for such a career, since you could be outstanding in the field. If you can overcome your tendency to be overly critical with those under your supervision, you would also make an excellent teacher. Other fields suited to your talents: the law, music, chemistry, statesmanship, science.

Nordiques Name Coach

LEWISTON, Maine (AP) — Larry Johnston, a former defenseman with the Detroit Red Wings, has been appointed coach of the Maine Nordiques of the North American Hockey League.

Johnston, 35, was named Wednesday to succeed J.C. Gravel, who resigned after one season as coach.

John Cunniff, one of the top scoring left wings in the NAHL, was appointed as Johnston's assistant. Cunniff will continue to play for the Lewiston club.

A native of Kitchener, Ont., Johnston played four years in the National Hockey League, three of them with the Red Wings. He also was with the Kansas City Scouts and the Denver Rockets.

Ashkenazim refers to German and Eastern European Jews. They differ from Sephardim, the Spanish and Portuguese Jews, in the pronunciation of Hebrew and in ritual.

In Nordic mythology, the first man created by the gods, and the father of the human race, was called Ask.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE
What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth Sign.

FOR FRIDAY
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Not much astral help here. In general, it would be better to stick to routine matters. Perhaps, too, to take a little time to make some long-range plans.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Good offerings indicated. Stress your competence and do not hesitate to accept another's idea if practical. Creative pursuits favored.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Your fine mind and keen perception should assist you in even the most difficult of endeavors. If you don't stray off course, you can REALLY achieve now.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Mixed planetary influences. Be careful not to speak out of turn, and don't press too forcibly for what you want when a few well-chosen words could do the trick.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): You would make a big mistake if you lose control of emotions or become overly aggressive now. Take all situations in stride and problems will resolve themselves.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Watch trends; be guided by your innate sense of thoroughness and real needs. Don't let "outsiders" sway decisions, but do heed counsel from the trustworthy.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Be careful of the way in which you make your moves, whom you include in your plans. Wrong decisions could break your success pattern.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23): You may encounter what seems to be undue opposition. Take whatever steps are necessary to overcome it, but do not mistake honest discussion for hostility.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 24 to Dec. 23): Jupiter, favorable, now promises increasing gains. But some minor situations may have to be ironed out before you go ahead with long-range projects.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 24 to Jan. 23): Generous influences now stimulate your initiative and ambitions. Gains indicated through new enterprises, properly handled dealings with superiors, others in authority.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 24 to Feb. 23): An auspicious period. If you cooperate smartly, you can make up for lost time and break through any barriers to new attainment. Romance highly favored.

PISCES (Feb. 24 to Mar. 23): Plan your schedule so as to allow for handling, not only essentials, but some unexpected new activities. Be realistic, too, and do not confuse wishful thinking with "inspiration."

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a magnetic personality, unusual artistry and excellent judgment; are also idealistic, intellectually inclined and remarkably intuitive. If attracted to writing as a profession, by all means train yourself for such a career, since you could be outstanding in the field. If you can overcome your tendency to be overly critical with those under your supervision, you would also make an excellent teacher. Other fields suited to your talents: the law, music, chemistry, statesmanship, science.

China Wants U.S. To Cut Ties With Taiwan

PEKING (AP) — Communist party Chairman Hua Kuo-feng held a last-minute meeting with Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance today, presumably to tell him that if diplomatic relations are to be established between the United States and China, Washington has got to make concessions by cutting its ties with Taiwan.

Meeting a high-ranking member of the Carter Administration for the first time, Mao Tse-tung's successor said both President Carter and Vance had stated "explicitly" that they would be guided by the 1972 Shanghai Communiqué, which recognized Taiwan as an integral part of China and promised progressively closer ties between Peking and Washington.

"We appreciate that," said Hua.

The Chinese leader said he understood Vance considered his visit "an exploratory one."

"We also think it's good for the new administration to send someone here to explore China and to get to know the leaders of China," Hua said.

Vance's meeting with Hua followed four negotiating sessions with Foreign Minister Huang Hua and a discussion and dinner Wednesday with Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping, one of China's three top leaders.

The secretary of state, in a dinner toast to his Chinese host, said the United States "looks forward to the movement forward of the relations of our two nations."

He said his talks had been candid, "useful and helpful." And he assured the Chinese that the Carter Administration is committed to the 1972 Shanghai Communiqué signed by President Nixon and Premier Chou En-lai which pledged the two countries to move closer together. "We believe this visit to Peking is an important step toward progress along that road," said Vance.

Teng in his toast told the American visitor: "Our view is that we should move forward to full normalization of relations." He said that would be good for people all over the world.

But Hua in a speech to the Chinese Communist party congress last Thursday reiterated his government's previous terms for diplomatic relations with the United States. The United States, he said, must break diplomatic relations with the Nationalist Chinese regime on Taiwan, withdraw its military forces and installations from Taiwan and the Formosa Strait, and abrogate its mutual defense treaty with the Nationalists.

There was no expectation that he would modify these demands a week later.

U.S. officials say American policy is to avoid even the appearance of abandoning the Nationalists. There has been speculation, however, that the United States might offer to break diplomatic relations with the Taipei government while continuing the military alliance and the multi-billion-dollar trade between the United States and Taiwan.

needed to control these efforts. He said the person would train and re-train persons, bring up new programs and keep up the enthusiasm of the young people.

The community committee met in August to plan ground breaking ceremonies at the hospital. Mementoes were discussed, but it was decided to save the money for patient information and public relations in the new hospital.

Rideout said the hospital is in the process of uniforming all personnel with consistently colored outfits. All the different types of employees, office personnel, technicians and others, will have tunics or uniforms in a certain color. This way, it will be easier for patients to identify with the many different people entering rooms.

Identification badges are also being designed and will be mandatory for on duty employees. The clip-on badge will include the person's name and department in large print.

Rideout is also looking into emblems for the hospital staff's uniforms. They would be designed in the hospital's colors, green and white, with "Health Service to our Community," written inside a triangle.

Dr. Charles Hedges, president of the executive committee, reported to the board on the executive board meeting. He said all the audits have been completed.

Rideout informed the board that new director of nursing, Mrs. Helen Shields will assume her duties Tuesday. She has a masters degree and much nursing experience.

It was also noted that the emergency room contract for one year has been negotiated. It will be for the same service as this past year.

In the treasurers report, Harry Clifton reported that occupancy has been doing very good. Total admission for July were listed at 259 compared to 216 from last year. The year to date shows admissions at 1,910 compared to 1,682 from 1976.

Since June, 179 patients have used the recently-opened special care unit. The daily average number of patients overall is at 49, with the average length of stay at 6.38 days.

Present at the board meeting were Rideout, Mayor Frank Barnhill, Board Members Charles Rose, Dr. Carlos Alvarez, Howard Koch, Russ Palm, Harry Clifton, Dr. F. W. Anderson and Robert Huffer and Dr. Hedges.
